PRO RODEO CANADA

Pro Rodeo Canada, with its headquarters in Airdrie, Alberta, is the sanctioning body for professional rodeo in Canada.

In 2018, Pro Rodeo Canada sanctioned 57 events in Canada with a combined total payout of over $5.7 million.

The sport organization is committed to maintaining the highest standards that ensure every Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned event is managed with fairness and competence, and the livestock used is healthy and cared for to the highest standards.

Pro Rodeo Canada has a strong working relationship with the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) in the United States, and most Canadian rodeos are co-approved for world championship points. World Champions are declared using combined CPRA and PRCA earnings.

Although the contestants are the most visible, the association's membership also consists of rodeo committees, stock contractors, judges, rodeo secretaries, announcers, timers, bull-fighters, associate members, photographers, specialty-act performers and more.

Approximately 1100 members are represented by the CPRA's board of directors, who govern the sport of professional rodeo in Canada.

Contestant involvement in Pro Rodeo Canada can be achieved in a number of ways depending on the individual's background in the sport of rodeo. Options include Permit, Semi-Pro and full CPRA Contestant Membership. Details and application forms are available at www.rodeocanada.com

CPRA rodeos create a positive economic impact on the cities and towns that host them. For example, the Canadian Finals Rodeo generates an economic impact of more than $50 million annually into the local community. As well, professional rodeos in North America raise in excess of $30 million for local and international charities each year.

The 45th Annual CFR moved to Westerner Park in Red Deer, Alberta in 2018 and continued to enjoy huge fan support, a testament to the sport's ongoing popularity and growth.

ABOUT PRO RODEO CANADA

CANADIAN PROFESSIONAL RODEO ASSOCIATION - THE BEGINNING

The year was 1944. That's when a group of cowboys banded together to form the Cowboys Insurance Association. Each member put in $1.00 per rodeo and that amount was matched by rodeo management to form a small insurance fund for the participants.

The following year, the group was re-named the Cowboys Protective Association (CPA) and became a society under The Societies Act. They went from an organization focused almost solely on providing insurance and medical assistance when needed to a body designed to serve its members in a much broader way.

Ken Thomson of Black Diamond was the first President and there were 160 members initially. Before the organization's formation, many rodeos were paying less than $10.00 for first place money and entry fees were not added to the prize money. Thomson recalls attending a rodeo where he spent $14.00 in entry fees, won four firsts and two seconds and got $34.00 back.

The organization laid out its six objectives at the time:

- To organize professional rodeo contestants in the Domination of Canada for their mutual benefit and protection
- To raise the standard of cowboy contestants so the Association would continually rank among the foremost in Canadian and American sports
- To co-operate, insofar as possible, with the management of all rodeos at which members contested
- To protect members against unfairness on the part of any rodeo management
- To bring about honest advertising by the rodeo associations so that the public could rely upon the truth of advertised events in which it was claimed members of the society would participate
- To work for the betterment of conditions and of the rules governing rodeo events in which the members of the society take part

In 1965, the group incorporated under the name Canadian Rodeo Cowboys Association, an identity that lasted until 1980 when the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association became the official name of the organization. Under the auspices of CPRA, Canadian rodeo has become a well-organized and well-regulated sport, with a global membership approaching 1000, a comprehensive insurance and medical program, and a system of fines and suspensions for those breaking CPRA rules.

ABOUT PRO RODEO CANADA

THE CANADIAN FINALS RODEO

By 1974, it had become evident that Canadian professional rodeo had reached a point in its growth that demanded a high level national championship to conclude its season. The Edmonton Exhibition had decided to run a fall Livestock Show and the Canadian Finals Rodeo would fit well with this event.

CPRA (then the CRCA) officials realized that staging the event would require a governing body comprising equal representation from business and the CRCA.

That led to the formation of the Canadian National Finals Rodeo Commission, which included Bob Robinson, CRCA President and future Hall of Fame cowboy; Len Perry, Chairman of the Edmonton Spring Rodeo committee and member of the Edmonton Northlands Board of Directors; C.N. (Chunky) Woodward, prominent retailer and rancher; and Jerry D'Arcy, President of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede.

The Canadian National Finals Rodeo was launched in 1974 at the Edmonton Gardens, with prize money a substantial $29,278. The inaugural Finals attracted almost 30,000 people and made money that first season - setting the stage for a move to the Edmonton Coliseum the following year, the venue that has been its home ever since.

By 1982, prize money for the contestants had doubled, and a 6-Pac ticket marketing campaign was building loyal attendance growth. 1989 was also a milestone in the history of the Canadian Finals, because when the '89 rodeo ended, so did the existing contract, and the CPRA took a stand. After 15 years of Canadian Finals Rodeos in Edmonton, attendance and prize money had begun to stagnate. Rodeo needed to appeal to urban people because the rodeo family (largely rural) was already giving its maximum support. The CPRA sent a wake-up call to Edmonton by putting the rodeo out for tender. That move attracted Edmonton's attention as did a competing bid from Calgary to host the Finals.

In the end, the capital city saw the economic value of the Finals. So Northlands came back offering to guarantee the purse of over $250,000, with an annual escalation clause. But the real hook was the formation of the Edmonton Rodeo Cowboys Benevolent Foundation, to provide assistance to injured rodeo athletes. The local business community has remained staunchly behind this program with events like the Black Tie Bingo, and now Bling 'N Boots and the 50-50 raffles during the rodeo.

There have been changes over the years, some popular; others came with their share of controversy. Team Roping became part of the CFR event line-up in 2000. In an effort to tighten up the performance length, the boys steer riding finals were moved to Strathmore in 2003 before returning to Edmonton in 2008. Novice qualifiers went from six in both bareback and saddle bronc events, down to the current three contestants in each.

The move to include an average payoff, and have average points count towards the Canadian championships first appeared in 2008, while in 2010, the change was made to include season standings and switch from sudden death points, to using straight money earned totals for determining the champions.

One of the biggest debates over the years has centered on who qualifies to compete in the Canadian championships. As prize money grew, so did the pressure to open up the CFR to more than just Canadian-born contestants. In the wake of negotiating a new deal between the CPRA and the PRCA, the doors were opened in 2006, as long as the contestants participated in a set number of Canadian rodeos. Since that time, there has been a maximum of five non-Canadians who can be part of the CFR line-up in each event.

2004 was another banner year for the CFR when prize money topped the one million mark for the first time. And in 2006, attendance reached an all-time high when it hit 95,000 for the six performances. At its 40th anniversary event in 2014, CFR prize money climbed to $1.47 million and continues to attract world class rodeo athletes as well as rural and urban fans in record numbers. Today, CFR prize money sits over 1.65 million.

2019 will mark the second year the Canadian Finals Rodeo - as the CPRA Season Finale - enjoys its new home at Westerner Park, Red Deer, Alberta.

Animal Safety and Welfare

The regulations for care and management of rodeo livestock have been an important part of organized rodeos since the early 1900s. From its inception in 1945, the Cowboys Protective Association (CPA), today known as Pro Rodeo Canada, began creating rules to govern the care and use of animals in the sport

Pro Rodeo Canada supports the responsible and humane use of animals and believes that all animals utilized in entertainment, industry and sport should be afforded proper care and management.

Pro Rodeo Canada continues to be proactive in regard to the care and handling of all rodeo livestock. Extensive rules are in place pertaining to equipment, facilities, care and handling of livestock and conduct of competitors and livestock handlers to ensure the safest, healthiest conditions possible for all rodeo animals.

Among these are the following examples (a small sampling as the code of conduct for animal welfare at rodeos is several pages long):

- A veterinarian must be on-site at all performances and sections of slack.
- A designated area should be available to treat any animal that may be injured.
- Animals used for rodeo events should be handled by competent, experienced personnel at all times.
- Stimulants or hypnotics will not be used or given to any animal used for contest purposes.
- No person will abuse or mistreat any animal by any noncompetitive or competitive action anywhere on the rodeo grounds.
- Spurs must be dulled. No locked rowels, or rowels that will lock on spurs may be used on bareback or saddle bronc horses. Loosely locked rowels may be used in the bull riding event.
- Horse flank straps will be of the quick-release type and must be fleece or neoprene-lined to cover the belly and both flanks of the horse.
- All animals will be strong and healthy. Animals for all events will be inspected by a rodeo official before the draw. Animals that are injured, sore, lame, sick or have impaired eyesight will not be included in the draw. Should an animal become sick or incapacitated between the time it is drawn and the time it is scheduled to be used in competition, that animal will not be used and another animal will be drawn for the contestant.
- Calves may not be intentionally flipped backward; contestants must adjust rope and reins in a manner that will prevent a horse from dragging a calf with the rope to be removed from the calf as soon as possible after a "tie" is approved.

Pro Rodeo Canada stock contractors are expert stockmen and are very proud of their animals. They own and care for hundreds of head of livestock. They take pride in the conditioning and athletic ability of their animals, and, like a well-trained human athlete, an animal can perform to the best of its ability only if it is healthy and in top physical condition.

Pro Rodeo Canada event committees ensure that the facilities are inspected prior to the arrival of the animals and contestants in order to minimize the chance of injury to animals and contestants.

Professional rodeo judges inspect the livestock prior to each rodeo performance and any animal suspected of not being able to compete to the best of its ability is 'pulled' from the performance. The rodeo judges are responsible for the enforcement of all Pro Rodeo Canada rules including a section that deals exclusively with the humane treatment of livestock. Rodeo judges undergo constant training and evaluation to ensure their knowledge and understanding of the rules is being maintained and that they are correctly enforcing them, particularly those rules regarding the care and treatment of rodeo livestock.

Animal welfare is a major ongoing initiative of Pro Rodeo Canada and the organization continues to review, examine and change its regulations pertaining to animal welfare and safety each year.

Pro Rodeo Canada Media Guidelines

NOTE: The following guidelines govern media covering Pro Rodeo Canada/CPRA events. All media must review these. At the discretion of Pro Rodeo Canada and/or the respective rodeo committee, failure to adhere to these may result in forfeiture of media credentials and escort from the premises, as well as refusal of accreditation for future events. Unless specified otherwise, journalists and media are general terms for print, electronic, television, Internet and photo journalists.

General media guidelines and regulations

- Credentials are distributed on an as-available basis to journalists of recognized news outlets who are on assignment to cover the event and/or Pro Rodeo Canada. Journalists must represent recognized daily or weekly newspapers; news services; recognized publications and outlets that regularly cover rodeo; recognized national/regional radio and television networks; local radio and television stations; and/or recognized Internet sites. In each case, this is determined by Pro Rodeo Canada and the respective rodeo at their sole discretion.
- Accreditation badge must be worn at all times.
- Freelance journalists and photographers must provide proof of assignment to be considered for accreditation. They also must sign a form confirming that the images taken will only be used for that specific publication and for that specific story.
- News media credential applications and approvals to cover individual Pro Rodeo Canada events are available through the CPRA office. Media credentials must be requested no less than one week in advance of when needed.
- Security checkpoints and procedures have been implemented for the safety and protection of all. Accredited media are expected to cooperate with the procedures and requirements implemented for access to the media, photographer and broadcast areas. Media access will vary by rodeo, and the media rules of the respective rodeo must be followed.
- Contestants are available for interviews after they compete.
- Many of the individuals staffing media areas are volunteers, and the accredited media and broadcasters are expected to treat them with courtesy and respect.
- Media access to contestant warm-up areas depends on the regulations of the respective rodeo.

Television, Radio and Internet

Pro Rodeo Canada owns the rights to originate live, play-by-play coverage from the rodeo grounds, and in many instances, these rights may have been awarded to a broadcast or cable network and/or an Internet provider. Subject to the limitations previously outlined, non-rights-holding local radio, television stations, networks and Internet providers are encouraged to cover Pro Rodeo Canada events with the following limitations.

- Pro Rodeo Canada retains all rights in and to the filming, recording, in any media now or hereafter known, still footage/photography, radio or television broadcasting or reproduction in any manner or form thereof of any Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned event. The only exemption is coverage for local, regularly scheduled newscasts. Any non-local news outlets must first get approval from the national Pro Rodeo Canada office and the local rodeo before it can shoot footage at any Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned rodeo.
- Television, radio and broadcast credentials applications and approvals to cover individual Pro Rodeo Canada events are available through the CPRA office. Credentials must be requested no less than two weeks in advance of when needed.
- Some rodeo rounds are televised, and for those sessions, access may be limited.
- Any TV/radio broadcaster who does not comply with the above regulations will, without warning, have his/her accreditation withdrawn for the remainder of the rodeo and may be banned by Pro Rodeo Canada from covering future events.
- Any TV/radio broadcaster who does not comply with the above regulations will, without warning, have his/her accreditation withdrawn for the remainder of the rodeo and may be banned by Pro Rodeo Canada from covering future events.

- For local, regional and national TV news coverage, coverage of Pro Rodeo Canada events shall not exceed three minutes in length in the daily aggregate and must be a part of a regularly scheduled newscast. Only taped footage may be included in these reports. The outlet may not purport to show live, play-by-play coverage from a rodeo unless approved in advance by the local rodeo and Pro Rodeo Canada.
- Local credentialed TV outlets may broadcast live from the rodeo grounds, as long as the broadcast does not include action from inside the arena (which is covered above).
- Television cameras are not allowed on the arena floor, with the exception of the TV network covering the event.
- Pro Rodeo Canada owns the rights to all recorded coverage of its rodeos, whether it airs on a national, regional or local network. All media outlets will provide Pro Rodeo Canada with copies of their coverage upon request.
- Radio and Internet (audio or video) coverage may not purport to be live, play-by-play from the rodeo unless this has been approved and arranged in advance with the local committee and Pro Rodeo Canada.

General photography guidelines

- Only accredited photographers may shoot at a Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned event for media and/or commercial purposes.
- Freelance photographers will not be accredited without proof of assignment for a specific media outlet and without signing an agreement for limiting usage of the images to the specified assignment.
- Only Pro Rodeo Canada photographers are allowed to shoot in the arena. The only exception to this is for a post-rodeo ceremony shot, if applicable.
- Photographers must shoot from designated photo areas as set out by the rodeo committee. Photographers may not shoot behind the bucking chutes during a rough-stock event except with specific committee approval and may only shoot from there for timed events with the appropriate approval.
- Any secondary non-editorial or commercial use of any picture, film or drawing of a competitor is prohibited without prior consent of Pro Rodeo Canada, the contestant and/or the stock contractor.
- Photographers who do not comply fully with the above regulations may, without warning, have their credentials withdrawn for the remainder of the rodeo and could be banned by CPRA from attending future events.

Event Descriptions

Saddle Bronc Riding

In the "classic event of rodeo", the rider spurs from the animal's shoulders in an arc-like motion toward the back of the saddle in time with the bronc's actions. The cowboy rides in an "Association Saddle" with no horn while holding onto a braided buck rein. He wears spurs with dull rowels and chaps of light leather. The cowboy places his hand on the rein carefully to maintain balance and avoid either being pulled down over the front end or launched out "the back door". To qualify for a score, the rider must have his boots over the break of the horse's shoulders until the horse has completed his first jump out of the chute. He cannot touch any part of the animal or equipment with his free hand, lose a stirrup or get bucked off before the end of the eight second ride. The higher and harder the horse bucks and the better the cowboy spurs-the higher the score.

Tie Down Roping

Tie-down roping is the most technical event in rodeo. At the start of the run, the roper must remain behind the barrier until the calf crosses the scoreline. Breaking the barrier adds ten seconds to the roper's time. After roping the calf, the cowboy dismounts from his horse, runs down his rope and lays the calf down by hand. If the calf is down when he reaches it, he must allow the calf to get up and then lay it down. The roper then ties any three legs with a "piggin' string" (a shorter rope he carries between his teeth). The tie must hold for six seconds after the roper remounts his horse. The work of the horse is crucial; he must rate the speed of the calf, stop on cue in a single stride then hold the rope taut while the roper runs to his calf.

Ladies Barrel Racing

One of rodeo's most popular events, the barrel race requires the rider and her horse to complete a clover-leaf pattern around three barrels. The time starts when the competitor crosses an electric beam of light (start / finish line) and the time is completed when she recrosses the line after completing the pattern. Talented riders on fast, athletic horses that can blaze through the pattern while keeping all three barrels standing are the key to success. A five second penalty is assessed for a barrel being tipped over, effectively knocking the rider out of the money.

Bareback Riding

This event is the most physically demanding in rodeo. The cowboy inserts his gloved hand into the suitcase handle-like bareback riggin which is made of leather and is cinched around the horse. The stress on the riding arm is intense, absorbing most of the horse's power. The rider will be disqualified for failing to keep his spurs over the break of the horse's shoulders until the first jump out of the chute is complete, for touching the animal or equipment with the free hand, or for getting bucked off before the end of the eight-second ride. Riders try to spur the horse on each jump, reaching as far forward as they can with their feet, then bringing their spurs back toward the riggin. While they look wild and out of control, the great bareback riders are anything but - keeping their bodies in the middle of the horse's back while working their spurs to advantage for the entire eight seconds.

Steer Wrestling

Timing, coordination and strength are prerequisites for a steer wrestler. To begin with, he must remain behind the barrier, which is a rope stretched across the front of the starting box, until the steer crosses the scoreline, giving it a prescribed head start. If the cowboy breaks the barrier, ten seconds are added to his time. The horse is trained to run beside the steer and then run on by as the steer wrestler reaches for his steer. The steer wrestler catches the right horn in the crook of his right arm then must hit the ground with his legs extended forward in order to bring the steer to a halt. Using his left elbow and forearm as leverage under the steer's nose, he 'bulldogs' the steer to the ground. The steer must be flat on its side with all four legs extended. The second mounted cowboy is the hazer and it's his job to keep the steer running straight, allowing the bulldogger to get down on the steer.

Team Roping

Two contestants, two horses, two ropes, one steer and one barrier rope. Team roping requires close cooperation and timing between highly skilled ropers, a header and heeler. As in other timed events, the team ropers start from boxes on each side of the chute from which the steer is released into the arena. The steer gets a head start depending on the length of the arena. The header takes off in pursuit, with the heeler trailing slightly behind. If the header breaks the barrier before the steer completes its head start, the ropers are assessed a ten second penalty. Once the header makes his catch he turns the steer to expose the back legs to the heeler. The heeler then attempts to rope both hind legs. If only one is caught, there is a five second penalty. The clock is stopped when there is no slack in the ropes and the horses are facing each other.

Bull Riding

Rodeo's most dangerous event and the toughest eight seconds in sport. The bull rider inserts his gloved hand into the handhold of a flat, braided rope which is passed around the girth of the bull, into the palm of the hand, around behind the wrist and into the palm of the hand one more time. A weighted cowbell hangs on the underside of the rope allowing it to fall free when the ride is completed. During the eight second ride, the cowboy must keep himself close up on the handhold to prevent his arm from straightening and jerking his hand loose at the same time keeping his free hand from touching the bull. Riders are not required to spur, as staying on these strong, athletic, loose-hided and often cantankerous animals is difficult enough. But if the cowboy is able to use his feet, he can improve the mark from the judges. Rather than pick-up men, skilled "bullfighters" distract the bull at the end of the ride to allow that cowboy to escape to safety.

Rodeo Terminology

Added Money

The money put in by the local committee in each event which is then added to the entry fees paid by contestants to comprise total prize money.

Average (Aggregate)

The term used for the total score (or times) for a contestant competing in more than one go-round. (For example--the rider had scores of 85 and 83 and finished third in the average with 168 points on two rides.)

Barrier

The barrier is a breakaway rope that is pulled across the roping chutes. It is designed to give the steer or calf a head start out into the arena making the competition more difficult. If the roper, steer wrestler or team roping header leaves the box too soon, and fails to allow the calf or steer sufficient head start, a 10 second penalty will be assessed.

Bronc Rein

Relevant in the saddle bronc riding event. A 6 foot braided rope which the bronc rider holds onto at a specific place along the rope depending on the attributes and bucking style of the horse he is about to ride (mainly how the horse carries its head—higher or lower).

Bucking Chute

Gated enclosure in which the rider gets down onto the back of the animal, and takes his handhold prior to the animal being released.

Bull Dogger

Another name for a steer wrestler

Bull Fighter

A rodeo athlete who protects the bull rider after he dismounts or is bucked off the animal. The bull fighter distracts the bull, often by putting himself between the bull and bull rider, to allow the rider to get away from the animal and back to the chutes safely.

Chaps

Sturdy leather leggings, worn over jeans, to protect the rider's legs during a rough stock ride.

Dally

Wrapping the end of the rope around the saddle horn immediately after an animal is roped.

Many bucking animals prefer to stand in the chute facing a particular direction, so they can leave the chute in the direction they prefer.

Draw

In the rough stock events, the competitor is assigned an animal in a random draw from those provided to that rodeo by the stock contractor(s). That draw is most often made several days before the rodeo. In the timed events, the competitor is assigned an animal, again from a random draw made on site and shortly before the start of the performance.

Flank Strap

A sheepskin or neoprene lined break away strap passed around the flank of a bronc or bull, used to enhance bucking action. A flankman (cowboy or cowgirl) will be positioned behind and slightly above the bucking chute to place and adjust the flank strap just prior to the animal being released from the chute.

Go-Round

The term used when every competitor entered in an event has competed once in that event. Some rodeos have more than one go round. The CFR, for example, has six go rounds.

Hang Up

In the roughstock events, when a competitor can't free his hand from a rigging or bull rope, that competitor is hung up. This is a dangerous situation for the cowboy and can lead to serious injury.

Hazer

In steer wrestling the hazer is a mounted cowboy who rides along the right hand side of the steer keeping it running in a straight line enabling the steer wrestler to jump from his horse and take hold of the steer.

Header/Heeler

The two partners in team roping – the header throws the first rope, over the animal's head or horns, and the heeler throws the second rope to catch both the steer's hind legs; roping one leg results in a five-second penalty.

Judges

As in other sports, trained officials ensure that all participants follow the rules of the rodeo's sanctioning body; they confirm times for runs in the timed events and determine scores for rides in the roughstock events; record penalties for any infractions of the rules; and inspect the arena, chutes and livestock before each competition.

Rodeo Terminology

Mark-Out

A bronc rider or bareback rider must have his heels ahead of the horse's shoulders on the first jump out of the chute. If the cowboy fails to do that (called "missing him out"), he is disqualified and receives no score.

Pickup Man

The horseback cowboy(s) in the arena who rescues or "picks up" the saddle bronc and bareback bronc riders from their horses after a ride.

Piggin' String

In tie-down roping, the small rope used to tie a calf's legs together.

Prize Money (Purse)

The total amount of monies to be distributed among the rodeo's winning athletes; the total amount each receives depends on his/her performance in each go-round.

Qualified Ride

Cowboys competing in roughstock events must remain mounted on the bronc or bull for eight seconds with their free hand not contacting the animal to receive a score.

Re-ride

A roughstock contestant may be given another ride, at the discretion of the judges, if the stock is judged not to have performed sufficiently to allow the contestant to fairly compete or if the flank strap comes off before the eight seconds has elapsed or if the rider or animal runs into the chute or chute gate while leaving the chute for the ride.

Rigging

The handhold and leather pad in bareback riding into which the cowboy wedges his hand prior to the ride.

Roughstock Event

(Riding events) Rodeo events based on judges' scoring (bareback riding, saddle bronc riding and bull riding).

Slack

Excess entries at some rodeos may be scheduled for preliminary (slack) competition, usually before the rodeo opens to the public. Times/scores recorded in slack count in the same way as those recorded in the regular (public) performances.

Spurs

Attached to the heels of cowboy boots used by riders. In bareback riding the cowboy "spurs" the horse by bring his spurs up the neck toward the handhold. In bronc riding the spurring motion is from the horse's shoulders in a sweeping arc back to the cantle of the saddle. Spurs are also used to help the rider hang on to a bull during competition. The spurs used in Pro Rodeo Canada rodeos have dulled rowels that do not penetrate the animals' skin.

Stock Contractor

Provides the animals for the rodeo.

Timed Events

Rodeo events based on speed (tie-down roping, steer wrestling, team roping and barrel racing).

Timers

Rodeo officials who use time-keeping equipment to track the official time in the timed events.

CRES - Central Rodeo Entry System

CRES

In this age of computers, it is hard to imagine that at one time cowboys often spent all day on a pay phone trying to enter a rodeo.

Contestants had to reach rodeo offices individually, usually with only one rodeo secretary taking all the calls. With entries taken only on specific dates, a contestant could spend hours trying to get through a jammed phone line.

In 1977, entering rodeos changed dramatically with the introduction of the Central Rodeo Entry System (CRES), a computerized telecommunications entry system which was designed to overcome the complications of entering rodeos by allowing cowboys to take care of the majority of their weekly rodeo business through one office.

Telephone operators are at the Pro Rodeo Canada office during the rodeo season to key in information given by the contestants.

Contestants not only tell the operator what events they are in and which days they would like to have at each rodeo, they can also enter with their traveling partners. CRES helps increase the likelihood that they will all compete at the same rodeos at the same time, therefore allowing them to share travel expenses.

After entries are closed, the computer randomly draws positions for each contestant entered. Once the CRES office has completed the draw, a callback day is held, usually within 24 hours of the rodeo entries closing, allowing contestants to phone back and find out what performance they have drawn for that rodeo. Once contestants have sorted out any conflicts they may have, the names and numbers of specific bucking stock are entered into the computer and each contestant is randomly assigned an animal. Contestants then call the CRES office for a scheduled stock callback to find out what stock they have drawn. This information is usually available to the contestants a minimum of one week before the rodeo in question begins.

Although various factors affect the chances of contestants getting the day they asked for, every cowboy entered in the roughstock events has an equal chance of drawing the best animal.

Considering contestants often enter two and sometimes three events, the computer is able to draw up a schedule that allows contestants to work as many as four rodeos a weekend, competing in all their events on the same day at each rodeo.

CRES requires a full-time supervisor and up to three part-time operators. CRES handles an estimated 40,000 calls per season, with all calls being recorded to ensure accuracy.

If a discrepancy occurs, the CRES manager listens to the call and the problem is immediately resolved.

* CRES offers an online entry option as well - available via the rodeocanada.com website.

CPRA - Professional Judging System

PRO RODEO CANADA OFFICIALS

The Canadian Professional Rodeo Association's judging system was implemented in 1983. Since then it has expanded to employ up to 20 judges, supplemented by part-time, reserve officials who combine to make up the CPRA's Official Judging Team.

The objective of the system is in a word-consistency. Through instruction, constant attention to, interpretation and review of the rule book, and repetition of performance, a high level of consistency in judges' in-arena decisions can be achieved.

In 2018, there were 18 judges who worked the 56 events; as many as 12 judges are needed during some weeks of the season. Itineraries are drawn up so that the judges are paired up week-in and week-out with different partners. In other words, two to four-man teams will be mixed from one rodeo to the next, where dates and travel schedules permit. A few of the lead Pro Officials have over 25 years of judging experience.

A judging commission was formed to give input at the annual judging seminar. This committee evaluates the judges' performances at the seminar as well as throughout the year, and acts as a grievance committee for any complaints pertaining to pro officials. At the seminars, the commission members, along with the judges, take part in classroom and actual arena activities, reviewing rides on video, and discussing the reasoning behind their in-arena decisions. Sessions devoted to the rule book, interpretation of the rules, positioning and procedures are also held.

In the past, hiring judges was the responsibility of the stock contractor and the rodeo committees. Availability of individual cowboys was the determining factor in who judged a rodeo. The Pro Rodeo Canada Official Judging Team has overcome concern expressed by observers of the sport who had questioned the impartiality of judges; they asked how active contestants could not be influenced in their deliberations, judging one day and being judged the next by those they themselves had marked at a previous rodeo.

Through the help of our sponsors, the clinics, the growing experience of the judges, and the consistency in the marking of animals and rides, professional rodeo continues to improve.

Maple Leaf Circuit

Effective for the 2019 rodeo season, the CPRA and PRCA announced a partnership that will see the Maple Leaf Circuit join the previously sanctioned 12 PRCA circuits. The Circuit will shine a spotlight on non-Tour rodeos and help maintain solid entries throughout the season.

The Maple Leaf Circuit will have a separate (four day) finals, featuring the top ten contestants in each event from the 2019 Maple Leaf Circuit standings. The inaugural Maple Leaf Circuit Finals is set for November 27-30, 2019 at Regina's Evraz Place during Canadian Western Agribition. An added bonus for rodeo athletes is the opportunity for the Maple Leaf Circuit Finals Champion and the Circuit Season Leader in each event to qualify for the RAM National Circuit Finals in Kissimmee, Florida, starting in April, 2020.

Contestants do not have to purchase a PRCA card in order to qualify for the Maple Leaf Circuit Finals but any money won will not count towards qualifying for the RAM National Circuit Finals in Florida. If a CPRA contestant would like to qualify for the RAM National Circuit Finals they must purchase a PRCA card. Rodeo count/money won will not be back dated.

For 2019, contestant must be a Canadian resident to compete at the Circuit Final.

- First year only to create a base number of rodeos for non-residents to compete at.

- Rodeo count will either be 40% or 15 total rodeos (whichever is less).

Permit and semi pro memberships will be included.

Rodeos with less than $7999 added purse, that do not have 'qualifications' and that accept permits are automatically included in the Maple Leaf Circuit.

Any PRCA/CPRA Canadian resident is automatically assigned to the Maple Leaf Circuit.

- Members can request an exemption by writing to the PRCA.

Miss Rodeo Canada Jaden Holle

Jaden Holle was born and raised in High River, Alberta. She loves swing dancing, coffee, her horse, Monte and travelling. Growing up, Jaden was active in 4-H where she gained much of her knowledge about horses.

Jaden is working towards a Bachelor of Education degree through the Metis Teacher Education Program delivered by the University of Saskatchewan. Jaden has a passion for languages and speaks Spanish and French. While growing up, Jaden heard stories about her family's involvement in rodeo and wanted to keep those roots alive.

In 2017, Jaden was crowned Calgary Stampede princess and in 2018, Miss Rodeo Canada. Jaden hopes to encourage young people to pursue their passions and unleash their inner Cowboy or cowgirl, no matter where they grew up. Look for Jaden at a Pro Rodeo Canada event this year.

First High Point Title For Riley Warren

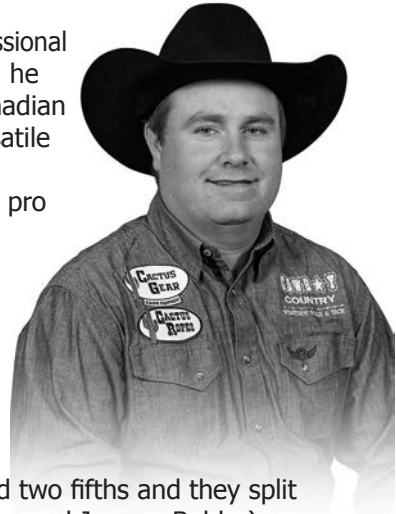

Riley Warren had dreamed about being a professional rodeo champion since he was a kid so when he clinched the High Point title at the 2018 Canadian Finals Rodeo, it was a pretty big deal for the versatile Stettler cowboy.

"I knew it was going to be close," the six year pro admitted, "so when I found out I'd won it, it was pretty cool. It goes in the history books now and they can't take it away from me. To win the first one in Red Deer, that's a pretty cool stat for me as well."

A full-time horse trainer when he's not on the rodeo road, Warren won just over $18,000 at the CFR heeling alongside header, Clay Ullery.

The pair placed in four rounds with a third and two fifths and they split round four (with eventual champions Levi Simpson and Jeremy Buhler) with a spectacular 4.0 on the clock. Warren added another $13,200 in the tie down roping courtesy of a split of the opening round at 7.8 seconds (again with the champion, this time Shane Hanchey) a 4th and two sixth place cheques.

The twenty-nine year-old veteran also added fifth place money in the aggregate in both of his events en route to a $72,200 season and the High Point win over hard-charging Jesse Popescul and nine-time high point winner, Curtis Cassidy.

B.C. Cowboy Named All Around Champion

Jacob Gardner thought he had missed his chance at a Canadian All-Around title. But on Friday night, four performances into his first Canadian Finals Rodeo, the Fort St. John, B.C. cowboy was all smiles as he began to realize that the improbable had become a reality.

"I'm truly grateful for it. I worked really hard this year to chase the All-Around and I'm just super excited to have the shot to go for that title," said Gardner, who clinched the All-Around championship on Thursday night of CFR thanks to an 81-point ride on Calgary Stampede's Night Moves.

It was a fairy tale end to a season full of ups and downs for Gardner, who was sitting second in the All-Around race and on the outside looking in when the official CFR standings were released earlier this month.

"For a few weeks I was a little upset that I didn't make the CFR. That was one goal that I kind of had this year but luckily, I got in here. And I made sure when I came that I rode well and capitalized on every opportunity," said Gardner, who qualified for the CFR after fellow bull riders Lonnie West and Brock Radford turned out.

Qualifying for the big show gave Gardner a second chance at overtaking Luke Gee in the All-Around race, and it was an opportunity that he wasn't about to pass up.

"To get the All-Around, it's hard because I'm in the steer wrestling and I'm up against some pretty big guys. I'm a little smaller, so I had to have a lot of heart and try. That was my main thing and now I'm here and reality is coming around."

Once Gardner secured the title, he was playing with house money at the biggest show on the CPRA calendar. He had the time of his life.

"My mindset was just to have fun. 2018 was my first CFR. It was an experience I think a lot of bull riders want to have and I'm really grateful for the opportunity. The main thing was just to have fun and go at every one."

Third Time A Charm for Crossley

The biggest money earner of this Canadian Finals Rodeo was Callahan Crossley of Hermiston, Oregon. Not only did the three time CFR qualifier cruise to the title with four first place finishes and two seconds, she also established two all-time monetary records. Riding her 20 year old gelding, Brownie, Crossley won a record-setting $73,575 at the CFR and her season total of $99,190 also goes into the record books.

"It's been a really long year for everybody trying to get to the CFR," the twenty-five year-old cowgirl noted. "I had a lot of highs and lows this year, more lows than highs, but I finished the season strong and the Finals just started out good and continued to go really well all the way through."

For the first time, the Oregonian had the whole family on hand to cheer her on—Mom Dad and her two sisters. And as expected, the jubilant champion gave much of the credit for the title run to the amazing Brownie. "He's always been known for being consistent," she stated. "He doesn't hit a lot of barrels and is just super honest. Not all horses are like that; I'm pretty lucky."

Crossley was especially excited about the win on a horse that she wasn't sure would last the entire season. "He's twenty so I wasn't sure what to expect and then to come here to the CFR and have my best finals yet is unbelievable."

The niece of WNFR bronc rider, Butch Knowles, Crossley acknowledged that the money she won at Red Deer and the voucher for a new Dodge Ram truck will definitely help with her rodeo future. "That's huge for helping me get a young horse ready to eventually replace Brownie and just to get down the road to keep competing."

The solid season she had and her CFR performance means the talented cowgirl punched her ticket to Houston, San Antonio and the Calgary Stampede. All of that, coupled with a plan to return to Canada for the coming season and to get back to the CFR building that both she and Brownie felt was perfect for their style, means that the future looks especially bright for the 2018 Canadian barrel racing champion.

Elliott Wins Second Title... and Talks Horses

When you talk to Clay Elliott, whether it's about a go-round win, a Canadian championship or just about any other topic, it's not long until the Nanton, Alberta bronc rider has steered the conversation toward his favourite topic... bucking horses.

So maybe it was fitting that the talented 24 year-old had three horses to talk about after claiming his second Canadian title in three years.

"The first horse I had drawn today was a horse called Black Hills of C5 Rodeo, a really good horse and I was excited to have him." Elliott recalled, "But in the loading up chute something must have happened and he didn't like it and he jumped and turned around." The judges erred on the side of caution and took the big black gelding out of the draw, giving Elliott a re-ride horse.

But that wasn't to be either. The horse got up against the fence and flattened out and the judges awarded Elliott another re-ride. "My get off from Banshee wasn't the most graceful," Elliott chuckled, "but at least I didn't get hurt. But it was a busy six or seven minutes, that's for sure."

And third time lucky for the 2016 Canadian titleist. This time around it was a rematch with C5's High Valley. "He bucked me off at Ponoka this year," the second generation talent admitted, "But I had him again at Edmonton (K-Days Rodeo) and I won it on him so I knew I had a chance to win the round here as well."

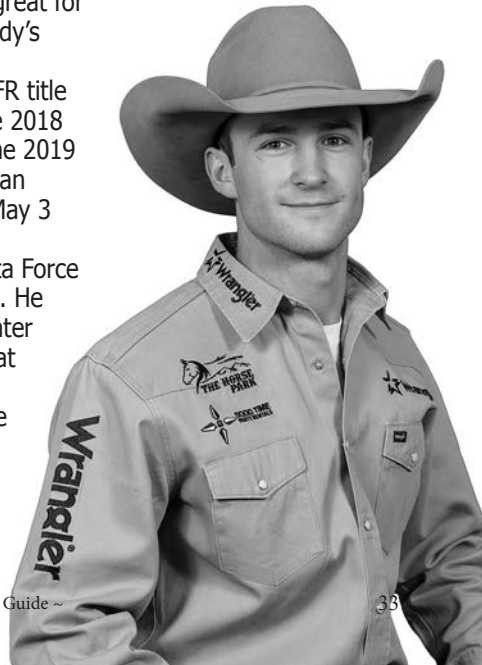

Elliott finished second in the go round—he was 86.25 points for the ride, a point and a half behind 2016 World Champion Zeke Thurston, who had been chasing his travelling partner all week. The second place cheque coupled with another second place payoff in the aggregate gave Elliott his second title in three years, this one by a margin of $9200 over Thurston with the champion winning over $40,000 in the Enmax Centrum to top $82,000 for the season.

For Elliott, it was also cool that he was the first guy to win the Canadian Saddle Bronc Riding buckle in the CFR's new home in Red Deer. "Yeah, that's exciting. The atmosphere and the production here is really great for the spectators," he remarked, "I think everybody's very happy with it in this first year."

Another WNFR appearance followed the CFR title run and Elliott placed a career-best 10th in the 2018 PRCA/RAM World Standings with $148,868. The 2019 season was off to a solid start until the Canadian Champion was severely injured during a ride May 3 at the Guymon Pioneer Days Rodeo.

Elliott was bucked off Frontier Rodeo's Delta Force and landed on his head and fractured his neck. He had surgery May 4 at the Swedish Medical Center in Denver. "He had a cervical spine fracture that was stabilized with surgery," said Rick Foster, program director for the Justin Sports Medicine Team. "The surgery went well, and the prognosis is good for a full recovery."

The second generation cowboy is expected to be out for the rest of the 2019 season.

Down to the Wire For Guenther

Scott Guenther knew time was running out. After three mediocre runs at the 2018 edition of the Canadian Finals Rodeo, the steer wrestling season leader realized he had to make some changes or watch the dream of winning his first Canadian championship slip through his fingers like sand through an hourglass.

So change things he did.

"I was having the worst luck," the Provost, AB cowboy admitted, "so I thought I'd switch everything up. I rode a different horse, had a different hazer and it went a lot better.

"I switched horses to Tyson, Curtis Cassidy's horse. He's the Steer Wrestling Horse of the Year and the best horse in Canada. Curtis was really good about it even though there were already four guys riding him. And Baillie Milan hazed for me. It felt awesome."

The five time Canadian Finals Rodeo qualifier posted a 3.7 to win the 4th go-round and a cheque for $10,530 to jump back into contention for that coveted Canadian title. He followed that up with an even quicker 3.6 run in round five for a 1/2 split setting the stage for a thrilling Sunday afternoon finale—one run for the champion's buckle.

As he backed into the box for his final run of CFR '45, the back to back Alberta Circuit winner knew what he had to do. Guenther had already watched some of his closest competitors and travelling partners have varying degrees of success. He knew he didn't have to win the round but needed to at least place to hold his spot in the aggregate and take home his first Canadian Championship. And that's exactly what he did... with authority.

The five time CFR qualifier posted his second consecutive 3.6 second run to split second and third in the round for $6480 and held on to fourth place in the average for another $7695. His total season earnings of $69,899 left him comfortably ahead of the second place man and Aggregate Champion, Stephen Culling.

"Sunday was a little nerve-racking," Guenther acknowledged. "My steer hadn't come in (to the chute) yet. I could hear the announcers bragging me up and I tried to blank that out but I couldn't really do it."

With the crowd roaring around him, the second generation dogger made the run he needed to make. And as he bounced back to his feet after dogging that last steer, Scott Guenther knew he'd won and the crowd knew it too. The celebration began.

While the win is Guenther's first, it's not the first for the family. His Dad, Ken, captured the title 37 years earlier in 1981.

Guenther headed to Las Vegas's Thomas and Mack arena for his second consecutive WNFR appearance just over a month after his CFR win where he finished fifth overall with $186,727 in World/PRCA earnings.

North of '49 Success For Champion

The way the finals unfolded, Champion had to be at his best in a final go-round for the ages, as the 25 year-old talent was a spectacular 88.25 points on Northcott-Macza's Stevie Knicks to spilt the final round with Manitoba sensation, Orin Larsen. Three-time Canadian titleist, Jake Vold was just one quarter point back for third in the round.

"The week just kind of rolled along," Champion noted. "It was hard to watch Jake and Orin win round after round, but I knew if I just stuck to my game plan I'd get my opportunity. And today Stevie Knicks (the 8 year-old Northcott-Macza mare) gave me that opportunity."

Champion was aware that what was unfolding in the sixth round at the Enmax Centrium was special.

"Everybody showed up today. That was one of the best bareback ridings I've ever seen."

The door had been opened just slightly the night before when another Northcott-Macza horse, Spilled Perfume, put Vold on the ground before the eight-second horn.

"You never like to see that," Champion stated. "Jake and I are good friends and we push each other all season long. That guy's a champion and that's just not something you want to see. But he came out here today and made a great ride just like you knew he would."

Champion, in addition to his final round success added a second, third, fourth and a split of sixth en route to finishing second in the average. His margin of victory over Vold was a slender $8,000, with the hard-charging Larsen, who won or split first in three go-rounds and placed in five of six, another $2000 back on the leaderboard.

Like most of the field in the bareback riding, Champion had to overcome some soreness in the early rounds, the result of a few weeks of inactivity prior to the CFR and getting on six head of horses in five days in rodeo's most physically punishing event.

"Guys were popping Advil like candy and looking for hot tubs every chance we got," the likable Texan chuckled.

"But today I felt really good. I just wanted to get it right on that horse today. I messed her up so bad in Leduc earlier this year the judges were laughing at me. And that horse grew up some since then. She was just what I needed; this is why we do this; it's for days like today and go-rounds like this one."

And when the six-year pro heard his score and knew he'd won the buckle emblematic of a Canadian championship, there was just one thought running through his mind. "Finally!"

With the success he enjoyed on this side of the 49th parallel in 2018 and the fact that he'll be tying the knot with Canadian Olympic skater, Paige Lawrence (daughter of Saskatchewan stock contractor, Jim Lawrence) in just a few months time, it should come as no surprise that Richmond Champion is planning to spend lots of time in Canada in the future.

Third Canadian Title For Hanchey

Shane Hanchey knew he had to let his hair down in the final round of the 2018 Canadian Finals Rodeo.

"That's not usually the way I do things," Hanchey admitted. "I'm normally known as an average, consistent roper and I'm not going to wow a lot of people with my speed, but the way the roping worked out today, I knew I had to go at him and it worked out."

In fact, it worked out well enough that the Louisiana cowboy collected his third Canadian Tie Down Roping Championship. Hanchey posted a 7.9 second run to win the final go-round and the aggregate to give him $65,338 in season earnings and a $1700 margin of victory over the hard-charging Canadian talent—Kyle Lucas.

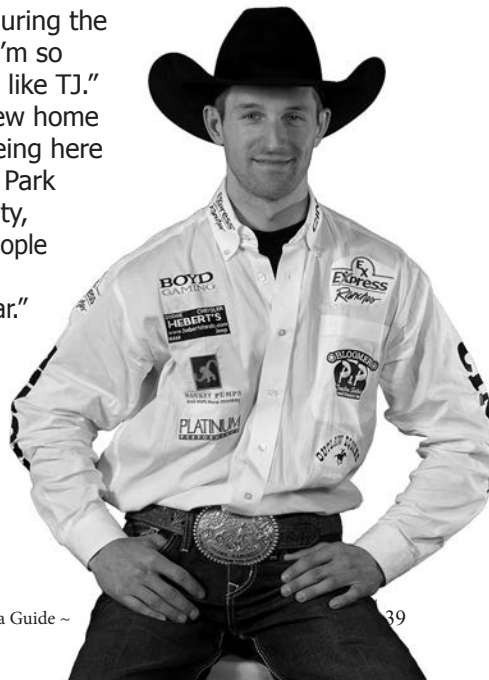

"This one was harder than the other two," Hanchey conceded. "I had those kids breathing down my neck. I used to be the kid but now it's guys like Kyle and Logan Bird and Riley Warren and then you've got the veterans like Curtis Cassidy and Al Bouchard—that's a really talented field so it feels really good to win this."

As he generally does, Hanchey was quick to credit his four-legged partner. "It wouldn't have been possible without TJ (Logan Bird's 2016 Tie Down Roping Horse of the Year). "He was the same every time. I never had to worry about him. I bet you could draw a circle around the spot I roped all my calves this week. I've been fortunate to ride a lot of great horses and TJ just keeps climbing that ladder for me."

The 2013 World Champion rides the outstanding grey horse at other times during the season as well. "I've gotten to be good friends with Logan. He's a great roper and a force to be reckoned with as well. I fly up here several times during the season and Logan and I enter together. I'm so fortunate to be able to ride a great horse like TJ."

Hanchey also heaped praise on the new home of the CFR. "I was really excited about being here in Red Deer. It wasn't just the Westerner Park people who were great but all over the city, the hotel, the restaurants, you could tell people were excited about the CFR being here. I loved it. I hope I can be back here next year."

The Canadian title (and his subsequent trip to the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas as the #1 ranked tie down roper in the world) was the culmination of what Hanchey called the best year start-to-finish of his career, a career that includes nine NFR qualifications for the 29 year-old superstar.

Simpson/Buhler Go Out in a Blaze of Glory

For Levi Simpson and Jeremy Buhler, their final appearance as a team (at least for now) was the perfect finale. And unlike the previous year when the 2016 World Champion team ropers came to the CFR as season leaders, this time around was a very different story.

"Heck, September first I was ranked about twenty-eighth," Buhler (the heeler) acknowledged, "so I feel pretty fortunate right now. We came in here a long way back so to have a comeback like this speaks volumes for Levi's heading. To give us chances to win six times in a row and make up that ground against a field of guys like this was pretty impressive."

The amazing pair placed in all six rounds, including splitting one-two in rounds two and five and sealing the deal with a third place 5.2 second run in the final round. Simpson, from Ponoka, AB, and Buhler (Arrowwood, AB) captured both the aggregate title and the Canadian Championship.

Buhler credited the chemistry he and Simpson have enjoyed since they first got together as the key to their successes—a world title and now back to back Canadian championships. "It's great not having to worry about what the other guy is going to do. You pretty well know how it's going to play out every run and that comfort is pretty helpful in these situations."

Simpson agreed. "We don't really have a game plan with each run. We've roped together so long we don't really need to map things out. We just know that if we both do our jobs a lot of the time it's going to work out for the best."

Simpson was quick to credit his longtime partner as well. "It's pretty easy to get along and be upbeat when you're winning but it's the teams that are able to get through the tough times and the struggles that are going to do good in the long run. When you're good friends like Jerry and I are, you can just talk about things, keep working at it and you know you'll be fine."

As for winning three titles in three years, Simpson noted that "It's our discipline in the arena and the work we've both put in that has allowed us to win in Las Vegas and now two titles here in Canada."

But even with the successes the pair have enjoyed as the most successful team roping team in Canadian rodeo history, it was just after the CFR that Simpson and Buhler announced they'd be heading in different directions and roping with different partners in 2019. Both men were quick to point out that the split was not a reflection of any conflict or problem between them.

"It's really just the difference in our schedules and how our families play into things," Buhler explained. "Levi's got a young family and I don't have kids so we both have to look differently at how hard we want to go and how much we want to be away."

The tricky part for both cowboys lies in the fact that for either to win another title, either in Canada or on the world stage, one of the guys they have to beat is the man that they've roped alongside of for a very long and very successful time.

Finkbeiner Tops the Field in 2018

Bull rider, Wacey Finkbeiner, survived a final round buck-off to win his first Canadian Bull Riding Championship. The Ponoka, Alberta hand had gone an impressive five for five prior to Sunday and that run gave him the championship as he topped a tremendous field of bull riders that included runner-up Cody Coverchuk of Meadow Lake, Saskatchewan and retiring two-time champion, Scott Schiffner.

"I wish I could have rode that last one today," Finkbeiner admitted, minutes after claiming the title, "but the way things turned out, going five for six this week and winning the average and now the championship, it's pretty special for me."

Finkbeiner had to overcome a difficult fifth round as his leg was caught in the chute when his bull turned around and came out backwards. "Yeah, after that I was just along for the ride. It wasn't a lot of fun and that was the hip I'd hurt earlier in the week so it was a little painful but it all worked out for me in the end."

Even with the mishap, Finkbeiner managed a fifth place in the round to go with two go round wins, a second and a third in the previous four go-rounds. All of that coupled with the aggregate win gave the second generation bull rider $50,895 in CFR earnings for a season total of $73,729 and a $14,000 margin of victory over Coverchuk.

When asked how it felt to be named Canadian Champion, Finkbeiner said, "I like the ring of that, for sure. It hasn't really sunk in yet but when I get back to the dressing room and a bunch of my buddies are whoopin' and hollerin', that's when it'll all start to be real. When you're a professional bull rider, you obviously want to be the best in your sport for that year, so this is pretty special."

And the win was made still more special for a cowboy who grew up just down the road from Red Deer. "Yeah, I was raised just about a half hour from here," the twenty-seven year-old acknowledged. "I had a lot of friends and family here cheering me on and that was pretty special too."

Coverchuk Earns 2018 Rookie and Permit Awards

Maybe the guy who was most surprised by Cody Coverchuk's success in his first year in the CPRA was Cody Coverchuk.

"I had no expectations at all," the 25 year-old admitted. "I thought maybe I'd fill my permit and set myself up for my second year when I'd try to make the CFR." It's safe to say he exceeded his own modest goals. By a lot.

The indication that Coverchuk was more ready for life in the CPRA than he himself thought came at his first pro rodeo—the spring Medicine Hat spring show when he rode for 88 to win it. From that point on there was no stopping the Meadow Lake cowboy as he went on to capture rookie honours and was the permit award winner.

Coverchuk started riding steers in the KCRA when he was twelve and started getting on bulls when he was fifteen. "Dakota Buttar and I rode against each other a lot back then but I'd have to say he was further along than I was," Coverchuk grinned. "He won a lot of the time."

The talented bull rider went on to win the Junior Bull Riding title at the IPRA finals and added three CCA year-end awards to his building resume in preparation for a foray into the PBR where he qualified for four Canadian Finals.

Coverchuk explained what took him so long to give pro rodeo a shot. "I'd always wanted to compete in the PBR bull ridings so that's where I was riding for quite a while," the twenty-five year-old admitted, "but people kept asking me when they'd see me at the CFR so I decided it was time to try it."

The fans got their wish. Not only did the Saskatchewan talent make the CFR but he finished as the runner-up for the Canadian title. "I really just wanted to go to the CFR once but now that I've been there, I want to go every year."

As for his CPRA rookie title, Coverchuk is clearly proud of his achievement. "You only get one shot at that award and the competition was really tough with guys like (saddle bronc rider) Dawson Hay who was a rookie last year as well."

With Cody Lee Coverchuk's pro rodeo career already well ahead of schedule, there's no telling what the talented rider might have in store for fans as he enters his sophomore campaign.

Specialty Acts and Awards of 2018

SHANE CROUCH - Committee Person of the Year

For the 40 years there has been a Sundre Pro Rodeo, there have been members of the Crouch family on the committee. And Shane Crouch, the recipient of the 2018 CPRA Committee Person of the Year, is no exception.

"The last year I rode steers," Crouch grinned, "was in 1985. I've pretty much been involved in the Sundre Pro Rodeo since then. My dad, Gordon, and my uncle Les (who are twins) have been on the Board for the entire 40 years."

Crouch went on to say, "It was a complete surprise to learn I'd won this award. It's very humbling and I'm very honoured."

The Sundre Pro Rodeo, which runs June 21-23, has grown over the years and the committee and community has worked hard to improve the grounds and offerings in and around rodeo weekend.

"We added a new building this year," explains Crouch, "A pole, metal clad building with garage doors intended to replace the Whiskey tent. It's the new home of the Wild Horse Saloon."

And the committee has a few other elements lined up to help celebrate the 40th Anniversary... fireworks displays, Niki Flundra and her show, Unbridled, the Canadian Indian Relay Race, as well as a return appearance by rodeo clown, Dennis Halstead, seven-time pro rodeo entertainer of the year.

Sundre (located in west central Alberta) is an area where rodeo has been around since the early 1900's, the first pro rodeo was held in 1979. Today, the event draws top competitors from across North America, offers a payout of over $85,000 and is sanctioned by the CPRA, PRCA and WPRA.

"And it couldn't happen without our board and volunteers," Crouch explains. "In addition to our 11 board members, it takes hundreds of people to put this event on. We have great support in the Sundre area; we're so lucky that our community is so generous."

As to what keeps Crouch involved from a personal perspective, "I absolutely love rodeo - the contestants, the fans - all of it. And our whole town buys in. It takes a huge amount of work to make it happen and a lot of volunteer hours, but I appreciate it all."

BRETT GARDINER - Announcer of the Year

Brett Gardiner enjoyed his sixth consecutive appearance behind the microphone at the CFR in 2018, an honour that came on the heels of his being named Canada's Rodeo Announcer of the Year for a record eighth time.

Fittingly, during his intercollegiate career, Brett was the two-time winner of the Bill Kehler Memorial Scholarship (which recognizes the late Hall of Fame announcer/broadcaster) and Brett is quick to acknowledge his pride in being able to follow in the footsteps of the legendary Kehler.

Brett is one of Canada's most recognizable rodeo voices as he informs and entertains fans at a number of our sport's most important events across western Canada and beyond.

A school teacher when not on the rodeo trail, Brett, his wife Jaclyn, son, Grady, and daughters, Hadley and Blakely, reside in Sylvan Lake, AB.

Specialty Acts and Awards of 2018

DENNIS HALSTEAD - Comedy Act of the Year

2018 marks the seventh time Dennis Halstead has been recognized as CPRA Comedy Act of the Year. Retired from a 30 year career as a Calgary fireman, Dennis spends much of the year on the road travelling to rodeos across North America where his zany humour is enjoyed by fans of all ages.

Dennis has enjoyed appearances at the Calgary Stampede, the Dodge Circuit Finals... and even rodeos in Australia. He was alternate barrelman at the 2016 WNFR.

"I'm very fortunate to get to do what I do," Dennis comments. "It's a dream to be a rodeo clown and live the lifestyle of a cowboy."

SHELBY PIERSON - Dress Act of the Year

A southern Alberta ranch girl, and for over a decade, a professional trick rider, Shelby Pierson has performed at events across Canada, the US and Australia.

Shelby is a 3-Time Canadian Trick Riding Champion, an Australian Trick Riding Champion and in 2018, she was named the CPRA Contract Dress Act of the Year. Among Shelby's highlight appearances are the Ponoka Stampede, the Armstrong IPE & Stampede, the Canadian Finals Rodeo, the Snake River Stampede, and the St. Paul Rodeo.

2018 Douglas Lake Ranch Cowboy of the Year

ALWIN BOUCHARD

Long, lean Al Bouchard of Scandia took a solid season performance into the 2009 Canadian Finals Rodeo and when the dust had settled in the Northlands Coliseum, the veteran tie down roper had won his first Canadian title—all the more significant as it would be a long time (2017-Logan Bird) before a Canadian would win another tie down roping title.

But Al Bouchard is about a lot more than winning—though the veteran has done his share of that in a career that has seen him qualify for a remarkable 18 Canadian Finals Rodeos. Toss in wins at the Calgary Stampede and Pendleton Roundup and the resume is impressive indeed. But in the voting that takes place for the Cowboy of the Year Award, the judges are looking at more than just rodeo ability. It's the people who have conducted themselves with class, who have given back to the sport and who serve as role models for the next generation of competitors and the one after that who are considered for the honour of receiving the beautiful Contway bronze from the Douglas Lake Ranch, the CPRA-sponsored buckle buckle and the Bible from the Fellowship of Christian Cowboys that are given to the Cowboy of the Year.

And maybe Al's acceptance speech at the 2018 Night of Champions banquet that precedes the CFR tells the story as well as anything. He began his remarks with "Wow, I actually nominated somebody else for this."

It's that humility coupled his sense of fair play that have made Al a valued cowboy both in and out of the arena. A long-time Director of the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association, Bouchard's philosophy is a study in selflessness.

"It's humbling, it really is," Bouchard added. "When I think of this award I think of Hoover Hays who I've always thought was one of the really great people."

And in both (the late) Hoover Hays and Al Bouchard, you see many of the same qualities—the willingness to help and the desire to make the sport better. It's interesting that both men also won the coveted Guy Weadick Award at the Calgary Stampede.

"Somebody asks you to do something, you just find a way to do it," Bouchard states. "And I want it to be an even playing field for everyone. That makes rodeo better for the fans—for everybody."

A family man (wife Myra, children Clara and Cole) and business man, Al Bouchard brings a skillset to rodeo that has made him one of the toughest to beat in tie-down roping and one of the people you want making decisions that impact the future of the sport.

And it's those qualities that have made Al Bouchard one of the most respected people in Canadian rodeo and the 2018 Canadian Cowboy of the Year

2018 Cowgirl of the Year

SHELLY MANNING

Dedication to the sport, rodeo athletes and family characterize Shelly Manning - 2018 CPRA Cowgirl of the Year.

"I believe in helping out," Manning says simply. "I want to support rodeo and help my kids understand how the sport (and life) works... which includes marking barrels, entering and handling the pressures of competing, juggling school and rodeo."

Shelly, and former Canadian bull riding champion husband, Jay, have two daughters and a son. Paige (a successful barrel racer as well) just graduated from high school and twins, 15 year old Tristen and Taylor are active CPRA competitors - Tristen in steer riding (2018 Canadian Champion) and Taylor (two time CFR barrel racing qualifier). Weekends often find Shelly and Jay headed in opposite directions trying to help their children get to rodeos across western Canada. Weekdays find them juggling school, extra-curricular sports and training/riding horses.

Born and raised in the Williams Lake, BC; Shelly moved to Alberta in her teens - spending time with Rayel Little and learning the barrel racing game. A skilled trainer and jockey in her own right, Shelly is a Lakeland and Wild Rose finalist, a futurity horse trainer and clinician... and, along with Jay, the glue that holds her family together.

"Family is important to me," Shelly adds. While we're really busy, we try to eat supper most nights as a family. And I try to get to school games." (Tristen enjoys basketball and volleyball; Taylor excels in basketball).

"Being named Cowgirl of the Year came as a complete shock to me," says Shelly. "I'm just happy to witness by kids achieve their goals. There is a whole team that makes that happen; my family and friends help me."

Canadian Pro Rodeo Sport Medicine Team

The Canadian Pro Rodeo Sport Medicine Team, or CPRSMT, is a group of dedicated caregivers who love the sport of rodeo... and who have been helping rodeo athletes for over 30 years.

Team members (in such disciplines as athletic therapy, massage therapy and chiropractic care) provide care before, during or after each performance, as necessary.

Practitioners also educate and enable competitors to take better care of themselves and their injuries to ensure they get the most out of their rodeo season. In addition, the CPRSMT also includes a network of physicians, sport medicine doctors and orthopaedic surgeons providing post injury care to rodeo competitors.

2018 Stock of the Year

Stock Contractor of the Year - DUANE KESLER, KESLER CHAMPIONSHIP RODEO

Duane Kesler is honoured to be named the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association Stock Contractor of the Year.

Part of the legendary and long-standing Kesler family, which has roots and rodeos on both sides of the 49th parallel, third generation cowboy, Duane Kesler, stands at the helm of the family stock contracting business. Also part of the team is his mom, Judy; wife, Margo; sister, Berva-Dawn; son, Chase and nephew, Kurtis.

The Kesler family produces rodeos across North America and has horses and bulls selected annually for both the Canadian Finals Rodeo and National Finals Rodeo.

Bareback Horse of the Year

F 13 VIRGIL - Vern McDonald, C5 Rodeo Company, Lac La Biche, AB

The massive grey towers over the chutes, standing immobile as one of the best bareback riders in the world squeaks his hand into the rigging. The gelding barely has to lift his chin to swing his immense head over the gate to stare out at his dirt-filled stage. When the chute gate swings open, he instantly transforms from statue to exploding fireworks of awe-inspiring bucking, his luxurious mane and tail emphasizing his every move.

"He's just been a good horse," understates Vern McDonald.

Virgil is a statistician's dream. Not including his previous years of records, his high score for 2018 was 91.25 (out of a possible 100), 90 points is his average score (out of a possible 100) and 45 is his average stock score (out of a possible 50). That's about as close to perfect as it gets.

Now 11 years old, the 1,600 lb grey is a product of either pure luck or savvy breeding on the part of North Dakota rodeo stock contractor Dale Kling. He is an unlikely cross between an 1,800-lb. Percheron-cross and a tiny, 900-lb appaloosa mare, once owned by Hall of Fame stock contractor, the late Verne Franklin.

As a youngster, it wasn't long before he was on McDonald's radar — he was looking for a superstar, and Virgil fit the bill.

"I paid a lot of money for him, but he got me a lot of rodeos," admits McDonald.

Add to that list a two World Bareback Horse Awards, a fleet of trucks, and now, a second Canadian Bareback Horse of the Year award. But the awards and fame have also created a problem — finding time to rest the phenom.

"If I don't bring him, then a rodeo committee gets really upset," explains McDonald.

"Everybody wants him at their rodeo, and I understand it, but he also needs to rest, and I just can't buck him four times in ten days," he explains. "We're considering cloning him, but we'll see."

2018 Stock of the Year

Saddle Bronc Horse of the Year S-66 Stampede Warrior, Calgary Stampede, Calgary, AB

At 12 years old, Stampede Warrior is in her prime, and her fame for tough but honest trips proves she is a chip off not just one, not two, but three champion blocks.

Her father is Grated Coconut, the multi-award-winning stud sired by another great, the late Harvey Northcott's Wyatt Earp. Her mother is Fearless Warrior, a Stampede mare whose versatility saw her chosen by the competitors to compete at the Canadian Finals and the National Finals — morphing from a great bareback horse to a great saddle bronc.

Tyler Kraft, the Stampede Ranch Manager, has been there since her first trip, and so far, she is following in her mother's hoofprints — starting her career as a championship-winning bareback horse (they won $100,000 at Calgary on her twice) and then making the switch to saddle bronc, where they won $100,000 at Calgary on her twice more — and counting. Of course, who could forget one of her more memorable trips when she set a new arena record of an astounding 94 points with Cody DeMoss at Rodeo Houston in 2014?

Her fame has reached epic heights. When the dust cleared from the frenzied calcutta bidding at the HardGrass Bronc Match at Pollockville, the top bidder was asked who he wanted. He didn't name the rider — he simply said, "Stampede Warrior."

This is what I'm saying: to get championship-winning scores once or twice could have been a gift — but these many times it is undeniable — Stampede Warrior has earned her place alongside the greats.

Needless to say, there are a lot of terrific saddle broncs in Canada, and the competition is fierce.

"They've won over $500,000 on her," confirms Kraft. "It's surprising this is the first time she has won Saddle Bronc of the Year. It's been seven years in the making, but it means a lot."

Keep watch for the blaze-faced mare coming out of a left-hand delivery chute and, like Tyler Kraft, you will be witnessing history.

2018 Stock of the Year

Bull of the Year

-201 Night Moves, Calgary Stampede, Calgary, AB

Night Moves is no run-of-the-mill bull. Granted, just being chosen Bull of the Year launches him into a whole new stratosphere and a place in the record books, but to garner the votes of some of the toughest bull riders in the world after only eight trips says a lot about the moves he makes.

"We managed to get eight trips on him to qualify for the NFR, and three trips to qualify him for the Canadian Finals," explains Keith Marrington of the Calgary Stampede. "All of his trips were in Canada and he made every one of his trips count. He's a pretty special bull."

Night Moves came out of Braithwaite Ranches' breeding program, located near Bluffton, Alta. "We bought a package of bulls a couple of years ago from Todd [Braithwaite], and he was in it. We already knew he had lots of talent, and we're grateful to Todd for letting us buy the bull."

Now tipping the scales at nearly a ton, the big black went to the WNFR last year, and now with this award and his increase in popularity, he's almost a shoo-in when the WNFR bull roster is announced.

However, the horned bull is getting tougher to ride. Last year he was ridden four times. This year, he has been out eight times and was ridden once at Ponoka by Joe Frost (who didn't have the prettiest trip), but Night Moves himself was marked 44 out of 50.

"I think the secret to a lot of our success is keeping our animals fresh; we don't overuse them, and we're picking our spots," says Marrington. "Night Moves is maturing, and he's also a lot better in the chutes, so that certainly helps the guys out," he says.

"But, yes, he's been good," says Marrington. "Every time they draw him they have an opportunity to get a cheque, and that's what they want."

Barrel Racing Horse with the Most Heart

RIPN LADY (Ripp) - owned by Carman Pozzobon (Savona, BC)

For the second year in a row, Carman's great mare, Ripp Lady, a 2010 buckskin by Frenchs Hula Guy out of Bijou Betali x Eli Betastreak-better, and better known as Ripp to her fans, has been awarded the coveted Barrel Horse with the Most Heart Award.

"I didn't know if she'd get it again," says Pozzobon. "It was nice to get the call, but there are a few horses that have won it twice in a row."

As countless timed-event veterans have said, it's not the runs measured in seconds, it's the thousands of road miles that wears a horse out. The smart money is on the riders who prioritize rest and restorative rehabilitation, and in the highly competitive barrel world, it's a must for both horse and rider.

Today at eight years old, the 15.1hh buckskin mare is definitely living the good life.

"I mainly stayed in Canada this year, so she wasn't on the road as much," says Pozzobon, "and I always find a nice grassy field for her when she's off, so she can relax and reset her mind."

Preventative therapy is also high on Pozzobon's list for her great mare. "I take her to Coulee Equine a lot and she is looked after by three therapists — Tiffany Burn, Tracy Sharp and Roger Lewis, as well as Equine Fit. I use their saltwater hydrotherapy to take any heat out of her legs, I use their water treadmill for steady conditioning of Ripp — and I love the infrared lights to help keep supple muscles for good flexibility and stride."

Pozzobon also takes good care of herself, knowing first-hand that in order to ask your horse to win you must be in a good place yourself, so for her, it's chiropractic care and meditation.

Pozzobon has Ripp ready for her third appearance at the Canadian Finals Rodeo, and the distinctive mare quickly became one of the "faces" of professional rodeo.

"She always gives me 110 per cent, no matter what," says Pozzobon. "I'm so proud of her."

2018 Timed Event Horses of the Year

Tie-Down Roping Horse of the Year

STICK - owned by Curtis Cassidy (Donalda, AB)

Stick. It's not the most flattering name in the world, but rodeo fans and competitors alike all know the champion horse.

Nearly two decades ago, the gelding picked up the moniker of his original owner, Dale Butterwick. Eventually, Curtis Cassidy bought Stick back in 2010, and the horse promptly won Tie-Down Rope Horse of the Year.

"His parents were registered but Stick never was," explains Cassidy.

No matter. As breeders and trainers say, papers indicate potential, they don't guarantee it. It's the training, the riders, the athleticism and not surprisingly, the attitude, that focuses attention on one animal out of a slew of talent on the Canadian rodeo scene.

"It's pretty impressive that everybody voted him Horse of the Year again," says Cassidy. "He has overcome a lot. Last year at Ponoka he pulled all the ligaments and tendons in his front legs. We just got him back last winter. Two years before that he had a "flapper" issue in his throat [arytenoid chondritis — an infection and severe swelling and/or closing of the larynx, causing suffocation]. He almost died. Luckily, we caught it, got him to the vet and they saved him. He has had to overcome some challenges in his career."

He is also still at the top of his game. Want to see some champion cowboys? Hang with Stick. A few who cashed cheques courtesy of the gelding includes Tyson Durfey, Rhen Richard, Keely Bonnett, Timber Moore, Ryle Smith, Al Bouchard, Morgan Grant, Kyle Lucas and of course, Cassidy himself.

Cassidy's rep for keeping good horses going long past their "prime" is reaching legendary status, but he takes no credit for it. "They don't all last that long but sometimes those special ones do. You have to care for them and have good vets, and you also have to have good riders and ride and train them well yourself so when you get to the rodeo, they can do their job."

2018 Timed Event Horses of the Year

Steer Wrestling Horse of the Year

DASHIN HAZE (Tyson) - owned by Curtis Cassidy (Donalda, AB)

Early in his career, Tyson was too strong for barrel racing, but the brown horse with the catapult take-off was perfect for steer wrestling.

Fortunately for the gelding, Curtis Cassidy, one of the foremost steer wrestling horse trainers, liked him and introduced him to the world of wide-open flybys.

"We spent the first winter getting him broke to the box and trained on cattle. He came around pretty fast. Then we just went to rodeoing on him. At Calgary in '16 he was injured while he was getting warmed up, so I had to leave him off the rest of the year," explains Cassidy.

The gelding eventually bounced back from the serious injury, living up to his namesake, boxer Mike Tyson.

"I didn't bring him back til '17, but he's been doing better and better, ever since."

Cassidy rode the 15hh gelding at the winter rodeos and the spring rodeos in California, and then didn't haul him south again until after the K-Days Rodeo in Edmonton. "He's mostly been in Canada, and I also used him in the northwest rodeos this fall."

Together, the record-setting duo did a lot of winning this year (just to mention a few: Grande Prairie, Olds, Brooks and Puyallup, Wash., where he won $18,000), and Tyson is heading to his second CFR. Cassidy is also making the haul to Vegas where he is a contender.

Cassidy is picky about who he shares his horses with — being a good rider is a must and so is not wasting a run. The paydays can add up pretty darn fast with the calibre of riders that will be swinging into the saddle on the brown horse, and we can safely assume many of the cheques will be written to Cassidy.

After all, there is only one way to get a back number at the CFR, and that is to earn it — and Cassidy has earned so many he has rewritten the record book.

2018 Timed Event Horses of the Year

Team Roping Heeling Horse of the Year

HARRY - owned by Tristin Woolsey (Nanton, AB)

Blazing fast, strong-willed, good-looking and competitive with catlike reflexes, this horse has it all going on, and now everyone else knows about him too — thanks to the heelers that rope against him.

The gelding with the unassuming nickname of Harry has been in Tristin Woolsey's string for a while now, and he's got nothing but praise for the 15hh gelding.

"I've had him since he was five or six," says Woolsey. "I started him as a rope horse for some clients, but he was too much horse for what they wanted, so we bought him. Then I bought some colts and my dad and I did some trading, and Harry became mine."

The young cowboy went pro in 2015, and Harry has been his partner since the beginning. The duo has been steadily climbing in the standings.

"We won Wainwright, Ponoka, Coronation and split the win at TeePee Creek," says Woolsey. "All of the rodeos we hit were up here in Canada."

The young pro was quick to answer when asked about his favourite run. "I'd probably say Ponoka, because it's a tougher setup," says Woolsey. "It's a long score — it's not like every other rodeo where you start in a box. You run down a long alley and into the big arena, and we won it."

Whether a long or short run out, Harry is easy to please; judging from results, every style of team roping set-up suits the 14-year-old grulla.

"He gets along with every horse too, and he's easy to travel with. He's honest, but," pauses Woolsey, "he's not the kind of horse you want to take to jackpots. He gets a little strong and gets pushing down the arena," he laughs.

Woolsey knows the calibre of top heeling horses that are out there and was gracious in his gratitude. "It's so great he won, and I want to thank everyone for voting for him," said Woolsey. "It's an honour."

2018 Timed Event Horses of the Year

Team Roping Healing Horse of the Year

CACTUS - owned by Tuftin McLeod (Waldeck, SK)

To win the Heading Horse of the Year Award is a big deal — but to win it in your rookie year is nothing short of amazing.

Mind you, neither Tuftin McLeod nor his gelding, Cactus, are strangers to awards. The 15.1hh classic buckskin was a star on the Canadian Cowboys Assoc. circuit. They won the Year End Award three times, and Horse of the Year twice.

He is simply known as Cactus. “I know he has a registered name, but I’ve never seen his papers,” laughs McLeod.

It was six years ago that his uncle lent the young cowboy the horse for a year after he lost his horse to a freak lightning strike. “Cactus was green, but I got him going pretty good, and then I bought him.”

Cactus wasn’t a cakewalk — in fact, he was anything but. “He was hard-headed at first, and it took me a year or two before he was good,” says McLeod. “He’d get really strong — chargey and get hard to control — but he has matured.”

Now 12, Cactus has really “come into himself,” says McLeod, who ropes with his younger brother, Tyce.

“He’s the type of horse that’s super calm and cool — but he makes a game out of getting caught in the pasture. He makes you work to catch him, but once he’s caught, he loads himself in the trailer; follows me around like a puppy,” laughs McLeod. “There is one thing about him though; he only has to look at a bale to gain weight. If he’s at home on a bale he’d probably weigh 1,400 lbs,” he laughs.

“He is stocky. He’s a real tough horse, too — and he’s got a ton of try,” he says. The Saskatchewan cowboy was humbled that his peers voted for Cactus. “It was sure a big surprise when I got the call that he had won,” he said. “This award is huge, and I sure appreciate it.”
