PRO RODEO CANADA

Pro Rodeo Canada, with its headquarters in Airdrie, Alberta, is the sanctioning body for professional rodeo in Canada.

In 2015, Pro Rodeo Canada sanctioned 55 events in Canada with a combined total payout of over $5.3 million.

The sport organization is committed to maintaining the highest standards that ensure every Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned event is managed with fairness and competence, and the livestock used is healthy and cared for to the highest standards.

Pro Rodeo Canada has a strong working relationship with the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) in the United States, and most Canadian rodeos are co-approved for world championship points. World Champions are declared using combined CPRA and PRCA earnings.

Although the contestants are the most visible, the association's membership also consists of rodeo committees, stock contractors, judges, rodeo secretaries, announcers, timers, bullfighters, associate members, photographers, specialty-act performers and more.

Approximately 1100 members are represented by the CPRA's board of directors, who govern the sport of professional rodeo in Canada.

Contestant involvement in Pro Rodeo Canada can be achieved in a number of ways depending on the individual's background in the sport of rodeo. Options include Permit, Semi-Pro and full CPRA Contestant Membership. Details and application forms are available at www.rodeocanada.com

CPRA rodeos create a positive economic impact on the cities and towns that host them. For example, the Canadian Finals Rodeo generates an economic impact of more than $50 million annually into the local community. As well, professional rodeos in North America raise in excess of $30 million for local and international charities each year.

The 42nd Annual Canadian Finals Rodeo attracted over 90,000 fans to Rexall Place in Edmonton, AB last November, a testament to the sport's ongoing popularity and growth.

ABOUT PRO RODEO CANADA

CANADIAN PROFESSIONAL RODEO ASSOCIATION - THE BEGINNING

The year was 1944. That's when a group of cowboys banded together to form the Cowboys Insurance Association. Each member put in $1.00 per rodeo and that amount was matched by rodeo management to form a small insurance fund for the participants.

The following year, the group was re-named the Cowboys Protective Association (CPA) and became a society under The Societies Act. They went from an organization focused almost solely on providing insurance and medical assistance when needed to a body designed to serve its members in a much broader way.

Ken Thomson of Black Diamond was the first President and there were 160 members initially. Before the organization's formation, many rodeos were paying less than $10.00 for first place money and entry fees were not added to the prize money. Thomson recalls attending a rodeo where he spent $14.00 in entry fees, won four firsts and two seconds and got $34.00 back.

The organization laid out its six objectives at the time:

- To organize professional rodeo contestants in the Domination of Canada for their mutual benefit and protection
- To raise the standard of cowboy contestants so the Association would continually rank among the foremost in Canadian and American sports
- To co-operate, insofar as possible, with the management of all rodeos at which members contested
- To protect members against unfairness on the part of any rodeo management
- To bring about honest advertising by the rodeo associations so that the public could rely upon the truth of advertised events in which it was claimed members of the society would participate
- To work for the betterment of conditions and of the rules governing rodeo events in which the members of the society take part

In 1965, the group incorporated under the name Canadian Rodeo Cowboys Association, an identity that lasted until 1980 when the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association became the official name of the organization. Under the auspices of CPRA, Canadian rodeo has become a well-organized and well-regulated sport, with a global membership approaching 1000, a comprehensive insurance and medical program, and a system of fines and suspensions for those breaking CPRA rules.

ABOUT PRO RODEO CANADA

THE CANADIAN FINALS RODEO

By 1974, it had become evident that Canadian professional rodeo had reached a point in its growth that demanded a high level national championship to conclude its season. The Edmonton Exhibition had decided to run a fall Livestock Show and the Canadian Finals Rodeo would fit well with this event.

CPRA (then the CRCA) officials realized that staging the event would require a governing body comprising equal representation from business and the CRCA.

That led to the formation of the Canadian National Finals Rodeo Commission, which included Bob Robinson, CRCA President and future Hall of Fame cowboy; Len Perry, Chairman of the Edmonton Spring Rodeo committee and member of the Edmonton Northlands Board of Directors; C.N. (Chunky) Woodward, prominent retailer and rancher; and Jerry D'Arcy, President of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede.

The Canadian National Finals Rodeo was launched in 1974 at the Edmonton Gardens, with prize money a substantial $29,278. The inaugural Finals attracted almost 30,000 people and made money that first season - setting the stage for a move to the Edmonton Coliseum the following year, the venue that has been its home ever since.

By 1982, prize money for the contestants had doubled, and a 6-Pac ticket marketing campaign was building loyal attendance growth. 1989 was also a milestone in the history of the Canadian Finals, because when the '89 rodeo ended, so did the existing contract, and the CPRA took a stand. After 15 years of Canadian Finals Rodeos in Edmonton, attendance and prize money had begun to stagnate. Rodeo needed to appeal to urban people because the rodeo family (largely rural) was already giving its maximum support. The CPRA sent a wake-up call to Edmonton by putting the rodeo out for tender. That move attracted Edmonton's attention as did a competing bid from Calgary to host the Finals.

In the end, the capital city saw the economic value of the Finals. So Northlands came back offering to guarantee the purse of over $250,000, with an annual escalation clause. But the real hook was the formation of the Edmonton Rodeo Cowboys Benevolent Foundation, to provide assistance to injured rodeo athletes. The local business community has remained staunchly behind this program with events like the Black Tie Bingo, and now Bling 'N Boots and the 50-50 raffles during the rodeo.

There have been changes over the years, some popular; others came with their share of controversy. Team Roping became part of the CFR event line-up in 2000. In an effort to tighten up the performance length, the boys steer riding finals were moved to Strathmore in 2003 before returning to Edmonton in 2008. Novice qualifiers went from six in both bare-back and saddle bronc events, down to the current three contestants in each.

The move to include an average payoff, and have average points count towards the Canadian championships first appeared in 2008, while in 2010, the change was made to include season standings and switch from sudden death points, to using straight money earned totals for determining the champions.

One of the biggest debates over the years has centered on who qualifies to compete in the Canadian championships. As prize money grew, so did the pressure to open up the CFR to more than just Canadian-born contestants. In the wake of negotiating a new deal between the CPRA and the PRCA, the doors were opened in 2006, as long as the contestants participated in a set number of Canadian rodeos. Since that time, there has been a maximum of five non-Canadians who can be part of the CFR line-up in each event.

2004 was another banner year for the CFR when prize money topped the one million mark for the first time. And in 2006, attendance reached an all-time high when it hit 95,000 for the six performances. At its 40th anniversary event in 2014, CFR prize money climbed to $1.47 million and continues to attract world class rodeo athletes as well as rural and urban fans in record numbers.

Animal Safety and Welfare

The regulations for care and management of rodeo livestock have been an important part of organized rodeos since the early 1900s. From its inception in 1945, the Cowboys Protective Association (CPA), today known as Pro Rodeo Canada, began creating rules to govern the care and use of animals in the sport

Pro Rodeo Canada supports the responsible and humane use of animals and believes that all animals utilized in entertainment, industry and sport should be afforded proper care and management.

Pro Rodeo Canada continues to be proactive in regard to the care and handling of all rodeo livestock. Extensive rules are in place pertaining to equipment, facilities, care and handling of livestock and conduct of competitors and livestock handlers to ensure the safest, healthiest conditions possible for all rodeo animals. Among these are the following examples (a small sampling as the code of conduct for animal welfare at rodeos is several pages long):

- A veterinarian must be on-site at all performances and sections of slack.
- A designated area should be available to treat any animal that may be injured.
- Animals used for rodeo events should be handled by competent, experienced personnel at all times.
- Stimulants or hypnotics will not be used or given to any animal used for contest purposes.
- No person will abuse or mistreat any animal by any noncompetitive or competitive action anywhere on the rodeo grounds.
- Spurs must be dulled. No locked rowels, or rowels that will lock on spurs may be used on bareback or saddle bronc horses. Loosely locked rowels may be used in the bull riding event.
- Horse flank straps will be of the quick-release type and must be fleece or neoprene-lined to cover the belly and both flanks of the horse.
- All animals will be strong and healthy. Animals for all events will be inspected by a rodeo official before the draw. Animals that are injured, sore, lame, sick or have impaired eyesight will not be included in the draw. Should an animal become sick or incapacitated between the time it is drawn and the time it is scheduled to be used in competition, that animal will not be used and another animal will be drawn for the contestant.
- Calves may not be intentionally flipped backward; contestants must adjust rope and reins in a manner that will prevent a horse from dragging a calf with the rope to be removed from the calf as soon as possible after a "tie" is approved.

Pro Rodeo Canada stock contractors are expert stockmen and are very proud of their animals. They own and care for hundreds of head of livestock. They take pride in the conditioning and athletic ability of their animals, and, like a well-trained human athlete, an animal can perform to the best of its ability only if it is healthy and in top physical condition.

Pro Rodeo Canada event committees ensure that the facilities are inspected prior to the arrival of the animals and contestants in order to minimize the chance of injury to animals and contestants.

Professional rodeo judges inspect the livestock prior to each rodeo performance and any animal suspected of not being able to compete to the best of its ability is 'pulled' from the performance. The rodeo judges are responsible for the enforcement of all Pro Rodeo Canada rules including a section that deals exclusively with the humane treatment of livestock. Rodeo judges undergo constant training and evaluation to ensure their knowledge and understanding of the rules is being maintained and that they are correctly enforcing them, particularly those rules regarding the care and treatment of rodeo livestock.

Animal welfare is a major ongoing initiative of Pro Rodeo Canada and the organization continues to review, examine and change its regulations pertaining to animal welfare and safety each year.

2016 Pro Rodeo Canada Media Guidelines

NOTE: The following guidelines govern media covering Pro Rodeo Canada/CPRA events. All media must review these. At the discretion of Pro Rodeo Canada and/or the respective rodeo committee, failure to adhere to these may result in forfeiture of media credentials and escort from the premises, as well as refusal of accreditation for future events. Unless specified otherwise, journalists and media are general terms for print, electronic, television, Internet and photo journalists.

General media guidelines and regulations

- Credentials are distributed on an as-available basis to journalists of recognized news outlets who are on assignment to cover the event and/or Pro Rodeo Canada. Journalists must represent recognized daily or weekly newspapers; news services; recognized publications and outlets that regularly cover rodeo; recognized national/regional radio and television networks; local radio and television stations; and/or recognized Internet sites. In each case, this is determined by Pro Rodeo Canada and the respective rodeo at their sole discretion.
- Accreditation badge must be worn at all times.
- Freelance journalists and photographers must provide proof of assignment to be considered for accreditation. They also must sign a form confirming that the images taken will only be used for that specific publication and for that specific story.
- News media credential applications and approvals to cover individual Pro Rodeo Canada events are available through the CPRA office. Media credentials must be requested no less than one week in advance of when needed.
- Security checkpoints and procedures have been implemented for the safety and protection of all. Accredited media are expected to cooperate with the procedures and requirements implemented for access to the media, photographer and broadcast areas. Media access will vary by rodeo, and the media rules of the respective rodeo must be followed.
- Contestants are available for interviews after they compete.
- Many of the individuals staffing media areas are volunteers, and the accredited media and broadcasters are expected to treat them with courtesy and respect.
- Media access to contestant warm-up areas depends on the regulations of the respective rodeo.

Television, Radio and Internet

Pro Rodeo Canada owns the rights to originate live, play-by-play coverage from the rodeo grounds, and in many instances, these rights may have been awarded to a broadcast or cable network and/or an Internet provider. Subject to the limitations previously outlined, non-rights-holding local radio, television stations, networks and Internet providers are encouraged to cover Pro Rodeo Canada events with the following limitations.

- Pro Rodeo Canada retains all rights in and to the filming, taping, recording in any media now or hereafter known, still footage/photography, radio or television broadcasting or reproduction in any manner or form thereof of any Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned event. The only exemption is coverage for local, regularly scheduled newscasts. Any non-local news outlets must first get approval from the national Pro Rodeo Canada office and the local rodeo before it can shoot footage at any Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned rodeo.
- Television, radio and broadcast credentials applications and approvals to cover individual Pro Rodeo Canada events are available through the CPRA office. Credentials must be requested no less than two weeks in advance of when needed.
- Some rodeo rounds are televised, and for those sessions, access may be limited.
- Any TV/radio broadcaster who does not comply with the above regulations will, without warning, have his/her accreditation withdrawn for the remainder of the rodeo and may be banned by Pro Rodeo Canada from covering future events.

- Any TV/radio broadcaster who does not comply with the above regulations will, without warning, have his/her accreditation withdrawn for the remainder of the rodeo and may be banned by Pro Rodeo Canada from covering future events.
- For local, regional and national TV news coverage, coverage of Pro Rodeo Canada events shall not exceed three minutes in length in the daily aggregate and must be a part of a regularly scheduled newscast. Only taped footage may be included in these reports. The outlet may not purport to show live, play-by-play coverage from a rodeo unless approved in advance by the local rodeo and Pro Rodeo Canada.
- Local credentialed TV outlets may broadcast live from the rodeo grounds, as long as the broadcast does not include action from inside the arena (which is covered above).
- Television cameras are not allowed on the arena floor, with the exception of the TV network covering the event.
- Pro Rodeo Canada owns the rights to all recorded coverage of its rodeos, whether it airs on a national, regional or local network. All media outlets will provide Pro Rodeo Canada with copies of their coverage upon request.
- Radio and Internet (audio or video) coverage may not purport to be live, play-by-play from the rodeo unless this has been approved and arranged in advance with the local committee and Pro Rodeo Canada.

General photography guidelines

- Only accredited photographers may shoot at a Pro Rodeo Canada-sanctioned event for media and/or commercial purposes.
- Freelance photographers will not be accredited without proof of assignment for a specific media outlet and without signing an agreement for limiting usage of the images to the specified assignment.
- Only Pro Rodeo Canada photographers are allowed to shoot in the arena. The only exception to this is for a post-rodeo ceremony shot, if applicable.
- Photographers must shoot from designated photo areas as set out by the rodeo committee. Photographers may not shoot behind the bucking chutes during a rough-stock event except with specific committee approval and may only shoot from there for timed events with the appropriate approval.
- Any secondary non-editorial or commercial use of any picture, film or drawing of a competitor is prohibited without prior consent of Pro Rodeo Canada, the contestant and/or the stock contractor.
- Photographers who do not comply fully with the above regulations may, without warning, have their credentials withdrawn for the remainder of the rodeo and could be banned by CPRA from attending future events.

Event Descriptions

Saddle Bronc Riding

In the "classic event of rodeo", the rider spurs from the animal's shoulders in an arc-like motion toward the back of the saddle in time with the bronc's actions. The cowboy rides in an "Association Saddle" with no horn while holding onto a braided buck rein. He wears spurs with dull rowels and chaps of light leather. The cowboy places his hand on the rein carefully to maintain balance and avoid either being pulled down over the front end or launched out "the back door". To qualify for a score, the rider must have his boots over the break of the horse's shoulders until the horse has completed his first jump out of the chute. He cannot touch any part of the animal or equipment with his free hand, lose a stirrup or get bucked off before the end of the eight second ride. The higher and harder the horse bucks and the better the cowboy spurs-the higher the score.

Tie Down Roping

Tie-down roping is the most technical event in rodeo. At the start of the run, the roper must remain behind the barrier until the calf crosses the scoreline. Breaking the barrier adds ten seconds to the roper's time. After roping the calf, the cowboy dismounts from his horse, runs down his rope and lays the calf down by hand. If the calf is down when he reaches it, he must allow the calf to get up and then lay it down. The roper then ties any three legs with a "piggin' string" (a shorter rope he carries between his teeth). The tie must hold for six seconds after the roper remounts his horse. The work of the horse is crucial; he must rate the speed of the calf, stop on cue in a single stride then hold the rope taut while the roper runs to his calf.

Ladies Barrel Racing

One of rodeo's most popular events, the barrel race requires the rider and her horse to complete a cloverleaf pattern around three barrels. The time starts when the competitor crosses an electric beam of light (start / finish line) and the time is completed when she recrosses the line after completing the pattern. Talented riders on fast, athletic horses that can blaze through the pattern while keeping all three barrels standing are the key to success. A five second penalty is assessed for a barrel being tipped over, effectively knocking the rider out of the money.

Bareback Riding

This event is the most physically demanding in rodeo. The cowboy inserts his gloved hand into the suitcase handle-like bareback riggin which is made of leather and is cinched around the horse. The stress on the riding arm is intense, absorbing most of the horse's power. The rider will be disqualified for failing to keep his spurs over the break of the horse's shoulders until the first jump out of the chute is complete, for touching the animal or equipment with the free hand, or for getting bucked off before the end of the eight-second ride. Riders try to spur the horse on each jump, reaching as far forward as they can with their feet, then bringing their spurs back toward the riggin. While they look wild and out of control, the great bareback riders are anything but - keeping their bodies in the middle of the horse's back while working their spurs to advantage for the entire eight seconds.

Steer Wrestling

Timing, coordination and strength are prerequisites for a steer wrestler. To begin with, he must remain behind the barrier, which is a rope stretched across the front of the starting box, until the steer crosses the scoreline, giving it a prescribed head start. If the cowboy breaks the barrier, ten seconds are added to his time. The horse is trained to run beside the steer and then run on by as the steer wrestler reaches for his steer. The steer wrestler catches the right horn in the crook of his right arm then must hit the ground with his legs extended forward in order to bring the steer to a halt. Using his left elbow and forearm as leverage under the steer's nose, he 'bulldogs' the steer to the ground. The steer must be flat on its side with all four legs extended. The second mounted cowboy is the hazer and it's his job to keep the steer running straight, allowing the bulldogger to get down on the steer.

Team Roping

Two contestants, two horses, two ropes, one steer and one barrier rope. Team roping requires close cooperation and timing between highly skilled ropers, a header and heeler. As in other timed events, the team ropers start from boxes on each side of the chute from which the steer is released into the arena. The steer gets a head start depending on the length of the arena. The header takes off in pursuit, with the heeler trailing slightly behind. If the header breaks the barrier before the steer completes its head start, the ropers are assessed a ten second penalty. Once the header makes his catch he turns the steer to expose the back legs to the heeler. The heeler then attempts to rope both hind legs. If only one is caught, there is a five second penalty. The clock is stopped when there is no slack in the ropes and the horses are facing each other.

Bull Riding

Rodeo's most dangerous event and the toughest eight seconds in sport. The bull rider inserts his gloved hand into the handhold of a flat, braided rope which is passed around the girth of the bull, into the palm of the hand, around behind the wrist and into the palm of the hand one more time. A weighted cowbell hangs on the underside of the rope allowing it to fall free when the ride is completed. During the eight second ride, the cowboy must keep himself close up on the handhold to prevent his arm from straightening and jerking his hand loose at the same time keeping his free hand from touching the bull. Riders are not required to spur, as staying on these strong, athletic, loose-hided and often cantankerous animals is difficult enough. But if the cowboy is able to use his feet, he can improve the mark from the judges. Rather than pick-up men, skilled "bullfighters" distract the bull at the end of the ride to allow that cowboy to escape to safety.

Rodeo Terminology

Added Money

The money put in by the local committee in each event which is then added to the entry fees paid by contestants to comprise total prize money.

Average (Aggregate)

The term used for the total score (or times) for a contestant competing in more than one go-round. (For example--the rider had scores of 85 and 83 and finished third in the average with 168 points on two rides.)

Barrier

The barrier is a breakaway rope that is pulled across the roping chutes. It is designed to give the steer or calf a head start out into the arena making the competition more difficult. If the roper, steer wrestler or team roping header leaves the box too soon, and fails to allow the calf or steer sufficient head start, a 10 second penalty will be assessed.

Bronc Rein

Relevant in the saddle bronc riding event. A 6 foot braided rope which the bronc rider holds onto at a specific place along the rope depending on the attributes and bucking style of the horse he is about to ride (mainly how the horse carries its head—higher or lower).

Bucking Chute

Gated enclosure in which the rider gets down onto the back of the animal, and takes his handhold prior to the animal being released.

Bull Dogger

Another name for a steer wrestler

Bull Fighter

A rodeo athlete who protects the bull rider after he dismounts or is bucked off the animal. The bull fighter distracts the bull, often by putting himself between the bull and bull rider, to allow the rider to get away from the animal and back to the chutes safely.

Chaps

Sturdy leather leggings, worn over jeans, to protect the rider's legs during a rough stock ride.

Dally

Wrapping the end of the rope around the saddle horn immediately after an animal is roped.

Many bucking animals prefer to stand in the chute facing a particular direction, so they can leave the chute in the direction they prefer.

Draw

In the rough stock events, the competitor is assigned an animal in a random draw from those provided to that rodeo by the stock contractor(s). That draw is most often made several days before the rodeo. In the timed events, the competitor is assigned an animal, again from a random draw made on site and shortly before the start of the performance.

Flank Strap

A sheepskin or neoprene lined break away strap passed around the flank of a bronc or bull, used to enhance bucking action. A flankman (cowboy or cowgirl) will be positioned behind and slightly above the bucking chute to place and adjust the flank strap just prior to the animal being released from the chute.

Go-Round

The term used when every competitor entered in an event has competed once in that event. Some rodeos have more than one go round. The CFR, for example, has six go rounds.

Hang Up

In the roughstock events, when a competitor can't free his hand from a rigging or bull rope, that competitor is hung up. This is a dangerous situation for the cowboy and can lead to serious injury.

Hazer

In steer wrestling the hazer is a mounted cowboy who rides along the right hand side of the steer keeping it running in a straight line enabling the steer wrestler to jump from his horse and take hold of the steer.

Header/Heeler

The two partners in team roping – the header throws the first rope, over the animal's head or horns, and the heeler throws the second rope to catch both the steer's hind legs; roping one leg results in a five-second penalty.

Judges

As in other sports, trained officials ensure that all participants follow the rules of the rodeo's sanctioning body; they confirm times for runs in the timed events and determine scores for rides in the roughstock events; record penalties for any infractions of the rules; and inspect the arena, chutes and livestock before each competition.

Rodeo Terminology

Mark-Out

A bronc rider or bareback rider must have his heels ahead of the horse's shoulders on the first jump out of the chute. If the cowboy fails to do that (called "missing him out"), he is disqualified and receives no score.

Pickup Man

The horseback cowboy(s) in the arena who rescues or "picks up" the saddle bronc and bareback bronc riders from their horses after a ride.

Piggin' String

In tie-down roping, the small rope used to tie a calf's legs together.

Prize Money (Purse)

The total amount of monies to be distributed among the rodeo's winning athletes; the total amount each receives depends on his/her performance in each go-round.

Qualified Ride

Cowboys competing in roughstock events must remain mounted on the bronc or bull for eight seconds with their free hand not contacting the animal to receive a score.

Re-ride

A roughstock contestant may be given another ride, at the discretion of the judges, if the stock is judged not to have performed sufficiently to allow the contestant to fairly compete or if the flank strap comes off before the eight seconds has elapsed or if the rider or animal runs into the chute or chute gate while leaving the chute for the ride.

Rigging

The handhold and leather pad in bareback riding into which the cowboy wedges his hand prior to the ride.

Roughstock Event

(Riding events) Rodeo events based on judges' scoring (bareback riding, saddle bronc riding and bull riding).

Slack

Excess entries at some rodeos may be scheduled for preliminary (slack) competition, usually before the rodeo opens to the public. Times/scores recorded in slack count in the same way as those recorded in the regular (public) performances.

Spurs

Attached to the heels of cowboy boots used by riders. In bareback riding the cowboy "spurs" the horse by bring his spurs up the neck toward the handhold. In bronc riding the spurring motion is from the horse's shoulders in a sweeping arc back to the cantle of the saddle. Spurs are also used to help the rider hang on to a bull during competition. The spurs used in Pro Rodeo Canada rodeos have dulled rowels that do not penetrate the animals' skin.

Stock Contractor

Provides the animals for the rodeo.

Timed Events

Rodeo events based on speed (tie-down roping, steer wrestling, team roping and barrel racing).

Timers

Rodeo officials who use time-keeping equipment to track the official time in the timed events.

CRES - Central Rodeo Entry System

CRES

In this age of computers, it is hard to imagine that at one time cowboys often spent all day on a pay phone trying to enter a rodeo.

Contestants had to reach rodeo offices individually, usually with only one rodeo secretary taking all the calls. With entries taken only on specific dates, a contestant could spend hours trying to get through a jammed phone line.

In 1977, entering rodeos changed dramatically with the introduction of the Central Rodeo Entry System (CRES), a computerized telecommunications entry system which was designed to overcome the complications of entering rodeos by allowing cowboys to take care of the majority of their weekly rodeo business through one office.

Telephone operators are at the Pro Rodeo Canada office during the rodeo season to key in information given by the contestants.

Contestants not only tell the operator what events they are in and which days they would like to have at each rodeo, they can also enter with their traveling partners. CRES helps increase the likelihood that they will all compete at the same rodeos at the same time, therefore allowing them to share travel expenses.

After entries are closed, the computer randomly draws positions for each contestant entered. Once the CRES office has completed the draw, a callback day is held, usually within 24 hours of the rodeo entries closing, allowing contestants to phone back and find out what performance they have drawn for that rodeo. Once contestants have sorted out any conflicts they may have, the names and numbers of specific bucking stock are entered into the computer and each contestant is randomly assigned an animal. Contestants then call the CRES office for a scheduled stock callback to find out what stock they have drawn. This information is usually available to the contestants a minimum of one week before the rodeo in question begins.

Although various factors affect the chances of contestants getting the day they asked for, every cowboy entered in the roughstock events has an equal chance of drawing the best animal.

Considering contestants often enter two and sometimes three events, the computer is able to draw up a schedule that allows contestants to work as many as four rodeos a week-end, competing in all their events on the same day at each rodeo.

CRES requires a full-time supervisor and up to three part-time operators. CRES handles an estimated 40,000 calls per season, with all calls being recorded to ensure accuracy.

If a discrepancy occurs, the CRES manager listens to the call and the problem is immediately resolved.

* CRES offers an online entry option as well - available via the rodeocanada.com website.

Professional Judging System

PRO RODEO CANADA OFFICIALS

The Canadian Professional Rodeo Association's judging system was implemented in 1983. Since then it has expanded to employ up to 20 judges, supplemented by part-time, reserve officials who combine to make up the CPRA's Official Judging Team.

The objective of the system is in a word-consistency. Through instruction, constant attention to, interpretation and review of the rule book, and repetition of performance, a high level of consistency in judges' in-arena decisions can be achieved.

In 2015, there were 17 judges who worked the 54 rodeos, and as many as 12 judges are needed during some weeks of the season. Itineraries are drawn up so that the judges are paired up week-in and week-out with different partners. In other words, two to four-man teams will be mixed from one rodeo to the next, where dates and travel schedules permit. A few of the lead Pro Officials have over 20 years of judging experience.

A judging commission was formed to give input at the annual judging seminar. This committee evaluates the judges' performances at the seminar as well as throughout the year, and acts as a grievance committee for any complaints pertaining to pro officials. At the seminars, the commission members, along with the judges, take part in classroom and actual arena activities, reviewing rides on video, and discussing the reasoning behind their in-arena decisions. Sessions devoted to the rule book, interpretation of the rules, positioning and procedures are also held.

In the past, hiring judges was the responsibility of the stock contractor and the rodeo committees. Availability of individual cowboys was the determining factor in who judged a rodeo. The Pro Rodeo Canada Official Judging Team has overcome concern expressed by observers of the sport who had questioned the impartiality of judges; they asked how active contestants could not be influenced in their deliberations, judging one day and being judged the next by those they themselves had marked at a previous rodeo.

Through the help of our sponsors, the clinics, the growing experience of the judges, and the consistency in the marking of animals and rides, professional rodeo continues to improve.

Pro Rodeo Canada Series

The 2016 Pro Rodeo Canada Series will include all rodeos except those on the Wrangler Canadian Rodeo Tour. The top ten qualifying contestants in the seven major events from this tour will compete in the 3rd Annual Pro Rodeo Canada Series Final which is slated for September 30-October 1 at the Agrium Western Event Centre, Calgary Stampede Park.

The Pro Rodeo Canada Series Final, hosted by the CPRA, is sure to be an exciting event as it is the last chance for competitors to qualify for the Canadian Finals Rodeo. Tensions are high that time of year, with some competitors separated by just a few dollars in the CPRA standings. When the dust settles on day two of the final, there will be stories of heartbreak at falling just a few dollars shy, and extreme joy when some competitors beat all odds to qualify for the big show!

Recently completing her first year of her Bachelor of Education Degree, she hopes of one day teaching kindergarten. Throughout her childhood, Samantha's strong passion for animals led her in many directions. She was an active member in 4-H for five years and participated in projects such as horse, steer, heifer, market lamb and ewe. She dedicated the majority of her years to holding executive positions such as secretary and then club president for two years. Samantha has also been an active member of the Elks Pro Rodeo Grand Entry team for five years and was honoured when asked to become a director this year and coach the Drill Team.

In her spare time, Samantha enjoys working on the community pasture looking after large herds of cattle. Her goal in life is to instill strong morals and values into the children who cross her path on the rodeo trail and share her love for the sport of rodeo and western way of life.

Cassidy Adds Another Title

by Dave Poulsen

The last time Curtis Cassidy wasn't at the Canadian Finals Rodeo, Ralph Klein was Premier of Alberta, Dolly the Sheep became the first successful mammal clone produced, Braveheart won the Academy Award for Best Picture and the New York Yankees won the World Series.

The year was 1996. The next year Cassidy started his career, not surprisingly with a Rookie of the Year honour and since that time, the 37 year-old has enjoyed a remarkable run that includes fifteen CFR appearances in each of the tie down roping and steer wrestling events.

Along the way he has amassed twelve Canadian titles—nine high point, two steer wrestling and one tie down roping - to go with five trips to the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo and a $100,000 win at the Calgary Stampede. The twelve major event championships leaves Cassidy just two behind the all-time record of fourteen held by Rod Warren.

So it's no surprise when Cassidy adds another accolade to his astonishing resume; in fact, the surprise comes when he doesn't.

But the Donalda cowboy's ninth High Point championship was a little unique.

"Only making the CFR in one event definitely made this year (2015) stand out," Cassidy noted, just minutes after edging 2013 High Point champion, Morgan Grant, for the title. "All of the other times I won the High Point I was in Edmonton in two events."

Cassidy was very good in his one event, however, with a go-round win, two third place finishes, a fifth and an average win; he finished second in the bulldogging to brother Cody who won his fourth Canadian title.

It was a triple crown of sorts for the Cassidys as dad Greg, the patriarch of the timed event dynasty, was inducted into the Canadian Rodeo Hall of Fame in 2015.

But for Curtis, this win didn't come easily as he watched Grant post an 8.3 in the final round of the tie down roping, a time that would have been enough to earn the Ontario-raised cowboy his second title...until Ryan Jarrett, the last man in the round, was 7.2 to drop Grant down one more spot in the placings and giving the title to a happy—and relieved—Cassidy.

"We'd put our horses away after the steer wrestling and we were standing there watching the calf roping and it was tough. I'd calculated that Morgan had me by five hundred dollars until that last run of Ryan's," Cassidy acknowledged.

When told that brother Cody had indicated that he'd like to match his dad and bulldog until he was forty-seven, Curtis laughed, "Well, you gotta stay sound first of all. Forty seven's a long ways off."

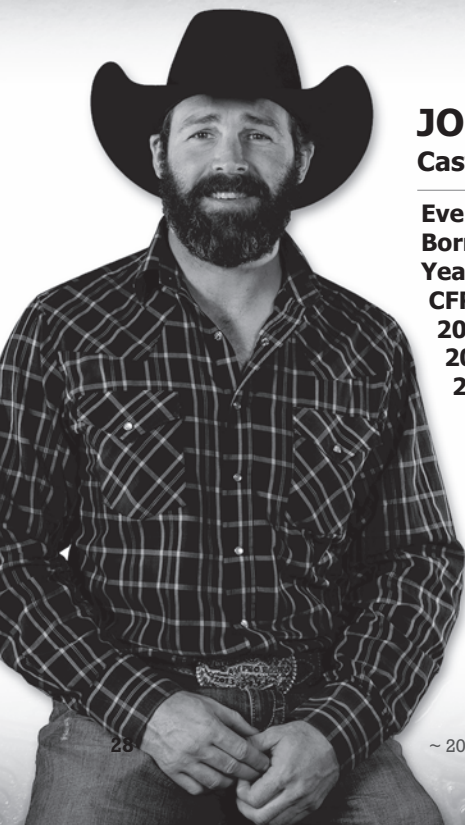

But then he turned serious again and as is so often the case with one of the sport's best horsemen, it came back to the animals. "I've got some really good young horses coming up. That's what's going to predict how long I rodeo. Kind of like Lee Graves—if I've got a good horse I'll go because good horses are what make good cowboys. I've got some real good young horses. I have one I bought from (barrel racer) Crystal Shaw and he really wants to be special.

"I'm hoping I'm talking to you guys next year at this time and I'm riding him all week."

It would be a real good idea to get your money down now on that being a reality. Consistency, dedication, a great family pedigree and excellent horses. It's a combination that has made Curtis Cassidy one of the winningest cowboys in Canadian rodeo history.

And heck, he's still got ten years to go.

Harden Wins All Around

by Dave Poulsen

For Josh Harden, the journey to the Canadian Finals Rodeo and his first All Around championship has been a long one, a hard one and one he wouldn't trade for anything. Though his mom and dad were ranch hands, there was kind of a natural progression into the sport he and his two brothers, Jeremy and Colter, have become a big part of.

"Growing up in Wood Mountain, Saskatchewan, not far from the Resch family, it was kind of natural that we'd get into rodeo," Harden recalls. "Jeremy started going over there and practicing and I followed him; that's where I chute-dogged my first steer."

In high school, Josh, the middle brother, worked four events but after graduation he narrowed his focus to steer wrestling and saddle bronc riding—the latter event taking him to the CFR as a novice qualifier in 2003.

Harden concentrated on the bronc riding for the next few years and hit the top fifteen in the season standings a couple of times. He added the steer wrestling back into the mix again in 2009 and has been a two event man ever since.

"That's when I smartened up," Harden laughs, "Working these two events, for me anyway, that's the way to go. They go hand in hand and I like that they're back to back most of the time—there's no time to think which is a good thing. I just let the adrenaline take over and go to work."

That strategy worked to perfection for the 33 year-old in 2015.

"I was riding a good horse and travelling with good guys (the Cassidys, Tyson Willick and Dustin Walker) and that's a huge help." The 'good horse' was Tank, SW Horse of the Year in 2015 and owned by Walker. "I knew the horse; he came from Jeremy originally so I was really glad to be able to keep riding him."

And while Harden had been solid all year, it was his performance at the Cinch Pro Rodeo Canada Finals that sealed the deal to get him to the CFR and propelled him to the lead in the All-Around standings, a lead All-Around contenders, Ky Marshall and Kyle Thomson were unable to overcome.

"Yeah, the Cinch Finals were great. I had re-rides both nights; the first night I got on a Kesler horse for my second one and I won second in the round," Harden notes. "A lot of people were telling me I had the Finals made after that ride but I didn't look at the standings or anything. I just wanted to do good on my second one there." And while his re-ride horse on night number two of the Series Finals didn't get him a cheque in the round, Harden wound up winning $2800 in the average giving him $24,667 for the year and close to a $5000 cushion heading to Edmonton.

And while Harden didn't add to that total at the CFR, no one was able to challenge his lead and Josh became the second Harden to win an All Around title; older brother Jeremy won it in 2005.

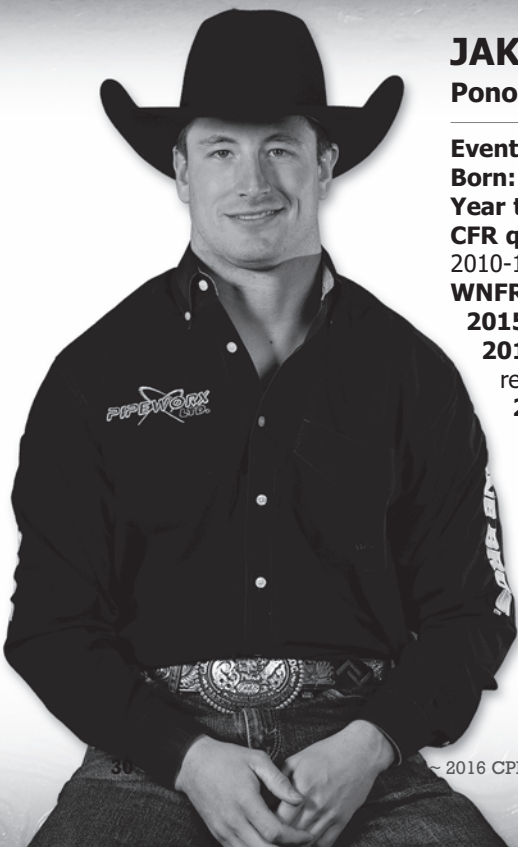

"I wish I could have had a little better Finals but overall I was really happy with my first CFR," Harden added. "It has really built my confidence for next year."

And that confidence will be further enhanced with the two brothers reuniting for 2016. "Jeremy's coming back to the CPRA for next year and that should be great. I have a new horse (Shaggy) that he rode this past year in the CCA and won their Finals on him," Harden stated. "And I gathered up the family (wife Jamie and twin three year-olds, Hunter and Tyke) and we headed down to Arizona and practiced a bunch this past winter."

When you talk to Josh Harden you can hear the anticipation in his voice as he looks to the coming season.

"I can't wait to get started again."

Vold Earns Second Bareback Title

by Dianne Finstad

Jake Vold managed to wrap up the 2015 Canadian rodeo season just the way he wanted. Sports events don't often go according to script, so that was a tribute to dedication and determination on the part of the talented bareback rider, who earned his second straight Canadian championship at the CFR in Edmonton.

Well, perhaps the only thing he might have tweaked would have been finding an extra $1432 somewhere along the way to make his annual income hit the $100,000 mark. But he wasn't complaining.

Especially when he managed to put an exclamation point on the victory he secured by recording the highest marked bareback ride of the 2015 CFR with his final ride. It was only fitting that the 89.25 point performance come on the back of True Grit, a horse owned by his rodeo relative Wayne Vold.

The horse took its toll, as did the week of strenuous riding.

"I dreamed about this forever," explained Vold on the final Sunday of CFR. "Last year I was so disappointed. I had it wrapped up on Saturday, and I slapped my horse on Sunday. That hurt, and I never forgot it, 365 days later. I nodded my head this time, and come hell or high water, I was going to make a good ride. It worked out. I'm pretty happy."

That's a word you could apply to the cowboy's entire season, as he shattered the previous Canadian record for bareback earnings in a single season with his $98,568 tally. At the CFR, he placed in five of the six rounds, winning $40,532 to finish second in the average, giving him another $9042; which basically doubled his impressive season earnings.

"This year, everybody stepped up their game, all 12 guys. It was tough. We had outstanding horses, the stock contractors get an A+, and everybody rode good. You never knew any night who was going to win. It was anybody's game, so that's what made it pretty exciting. I was just glad to be part of it, and lucky enough to stay on top."

While Vold came into his 6th CFR as a pro with more than a $20,000 cushion and the number one on his back, there's no such thing as a safe lead in rodeo when the year-end stakes are so high. With Caleb Bennett jumping out to win the first two go-rounds, there was some heat on the leader's tail. But that only fueled the fire in 28-year-old Vold, who answered the challenge with rides of 87.50 and 85.50 points the next two rounds, to keep ahead of the field.

"It makes it so fun when everyone's riding so good, and it keeps the chase on," he smiled. "Everyone's hunting for first. It makes a guy hungry and it makes it a lot more satisfying." "These younger guys, Ty Taypotat, Clint Laye, Colin Adams, they're learning how to win now and they're dangerous! It's exciting, and actually great watching."

Vold had the best CFR of his six-year career, fulfilling his yearlong goal of turning in 'dominant' performances. He also joins an elite club of bareback riders who have claimed back to back titles.

"The Canadian championship was what I set out to do. It's nice to say I accomplished it again."

As he reflects back on the road that's led to such success, Vold remembers the impact of Davey Shields who was dominating bareback riding when he first started with a rigging. Ironically, it's Shields' 2004 season earnings record that Vold overtakes this year. But, as a young student at Olds College, Vold also credits the influence of another Canadian champion, Bill Boyd.

"He took me under his wing, I was very fortunate. I owe everything to Bill. He took me, and molded me. I spent lots of time at his place and he set up all my equipment. He was there at all my practices, and the best coach I ever had – him and my Dad. Bill knows how to keep you so excited (about riding), yet fine tuning at the same time."

With his roots there, Vold remains a great source of Ponoka pride, even though his home now is in Airdrie. His family heritage in rodeo is also something he takes to heart, with Canadian champions Wayne and Everett Vold going before him.

"Rodeo runs pretty deep through our veins. To keep the name going on, third generation, it's pretty special to the family. I had a huge cheering crowd behind me, and my brother (Rode), so it's pretty awesome."

Adding to the legacy ranks as a big accomplishment in his world.

"I set out this year with my main goal to get my name in the books. I've wanted to do that since I was a kid."

While he ponders all that's transpired this year, it doesn't take the Champ long to be looking ahead. While he lingers just outside the world's top 15 for the NFR, he won the Cinch Chute-Out Rodeo in Las Vegas. And he's already thinking about the NFR again, as well as a third Canadian buckle.

"That's what I live for. That's why I ride bucking horses. I love being last guy out, watching everybody just spur the hair off one, watching rank horses. I like it when guys set that bar high. That's been my style. I'm not really a conservative guy. I get cussed for it lots, and it's cost me lots of money over the years, but it's also won me lots too. That's my style. It might not have the career length of some guys, but they're gonna remember me, hopefully, while I was here."

Csabay Claims the Canadian Crown

by Deanna Kristensen

It would be hard to imagine a more inspiring story than the real-life journey of this year's Canadian Ladies Barrel Racing Champion. At the 42nd edition of the CFR, six-time CFR Qualifier and 2014 Cowgirl of the Year Nancy Csabay of Taber, Alberta captivated the hearts of rodeo fans across the country.

Reflecting on her 2015 Canadian Championship journey, Csabay smiled and wiped back a few tears from her cheeks.

"I'm really grateful," she said.

After a couple of tough seasons of heartbreaks and health setbacks, Csabay said she finally felt her luck in 2015 change... with a bang!

Last season, she admitted her fifth trip to the finals in 2014 was tough.

Csabay's courageous battle with cancer captured headlines in 2014 and she said the whole CFR was an emotionally bumpy ride.

"I knocked lots of barrels in 2014 and I really had a hard time getting my head straight," said Csabay. "That was my struggle; I knew it wasn't going to happen again."

Csabay said she came into the 2015 CFR with only one goal, "To leave all three barrels standing.

"I learned a lot from last year and obviously, it was there for a reason," she acknowledged. "That's part of life, and that's why we go through things like this," she explained. "At my age, I'm still learning and that's part of it."

And nothing was going to break her down in 2015. Her CFR goals were to cowgirl up and to let fate and what she did in the arena define her as a champion. She accomplished both goals in spades.

Csabay acknowledged that she rolled into the finals confident that she could make a win happen. However, she admits that this CFR success story certainly blew the lid off of her expectations!

From the opening performance in Edmonton, all eyes were on the Taber cowgirl and her 2015 Horse With the Most Heart, Little Miss Wicked (aka Wicked - Terribly Wicked x Like An Effort). Csabay came to the CFR as season leader with $27,678 in earnings and a slight lead over the competition.

The duo headed into the final performance with a solid shot at the title. Five time champion Deb Guelly and Oklahoma cowgirl Cayla Melby were both within striking distance and although Csabay had placed in every round at that point (three seconds, a third and a fourth), she couldn't afford a mistake on her last run.

As she and Wicked crossed the finish line, there was no doubt. A clean run and another second place finish—this one in a time of 14.722 seconds. And while Csabay may not have won a go round in Edmonton, her consistency carried her to both the Average title, and a CFR total of $57,056.78 – which also earned her the CFR's Top Gun Award (most money by an individual competitor).

After last season, there are few awards in Canadian Professional Rodeo left for this 47-year-old cowgirl to win. However, Csabay said her rodeo goal now is to be closer to home so she can spend more with her family (husband Tony and daughter Kate).

"I try to live my life to the fullest," smiled Csabay.

For this champion, rodeo isn't about winning buckles and claiming paychecks though she's done both very well. According to Nancy Csabay, it's really all about living, loving the game... and having fun.

Gamble Pays Off For DeMoss

by Luke Creasy

Heflin, Louisiana's Cody DeMoss just completed the best year of his career and he owes a lot of this season's success to what he refers to as a $700 gamble.

With $90,687 earned in Canada, ($42,672.33 in the regular season and $48,014.67 from the CFR), it is easy to say it was a worthwhile venture. DeMoss lit up Edmonton with a win in go round one on Calgary Stampede's Mad Money, three second place cheques, a fourth and third in the average. It was enough to retain his lead and win the title over second place Wade Sundell by approximately $15,000.

2015 was DeMoss' first time as a card holder in Canada, "I typically go to Cloverdale and Calgary. Well, they said that they had what, fifty something thousand at Ponoka? Basically, what were entry fees at Ponoka - a couple hundred? What's a card cost - five hundred? I was willing to gamble seven hundred dollars to come up there and do good at Ponoka," and DeMoss did just that with a first place finish at Ponoka for $10,111.

"Everybody said, you've got the Canadian Finals made with one rodeo; all you've got to do is get your count in. So I thought, well this is a good idea. Never been there. I'm ready. So, I just went. And everywhere I went was good; the horses bucked in Canada. I had a lot of chances in the pen," DeMoss seized the opportunities with wins at Airdrie, Wainwright, Jasper and Lethbridge, Alberta and Merritt, British Columbia.

The Cajun had to put in the extra effort to get his minimum count for the Canadian Finals, "I made sure to get my count in, plus a couple. I went to 16 or 17 - had to go to Armstrong, Merritt, Jasper and Lethbridge; they were all new to me... I'd never been there. It was fun."

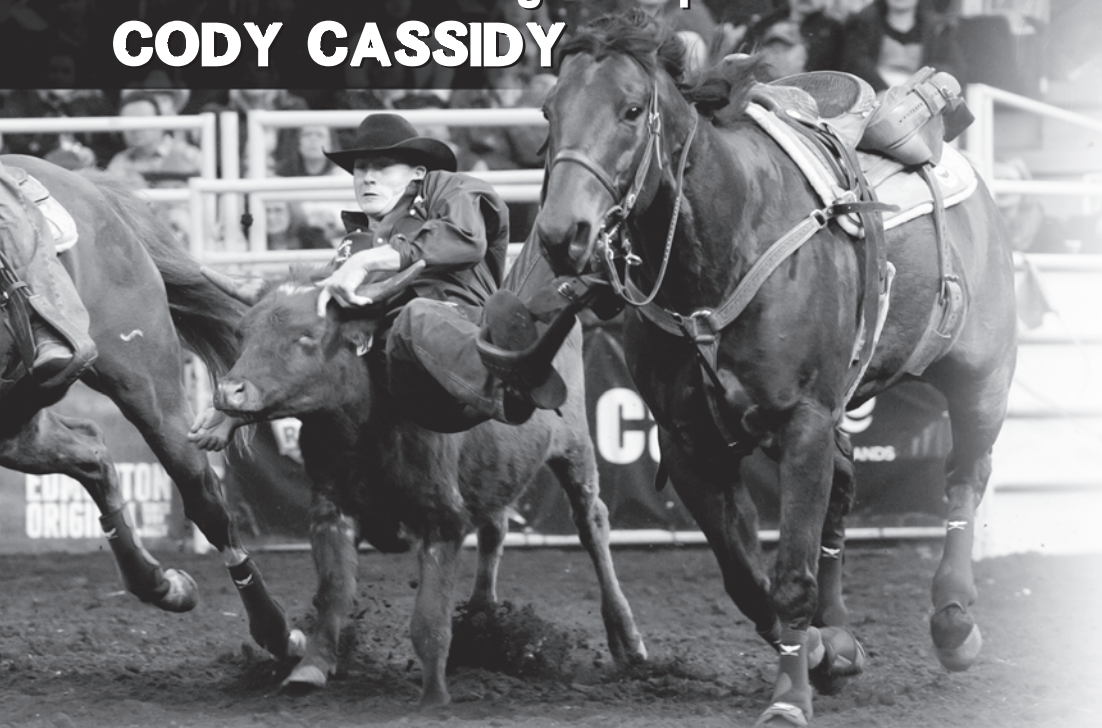

DeMoss was on a mission, and it became a solo venture as he noted,

"I had to do it myself. I traveled with Joe Lufkin in the States. Joe went to Ponoka, Wainwright and a few of them. We kind of got split up, doubled up. He got to go to Sundre and Airdrie and he placed well at Airdrie. He didn't do badly," but when it came down to it DeMoss had his sights set on CFR and Lufkin did not, "I didn't want to put Joe into the predicament I was fixing to be in. You know, you're shooting all over the globe to make those last 15 to get it done. I turned out of big rodeos down south. I didn't even enter Ellensburg because I knew I needed to get to Armstrong and Merritt. So I didn't want to put Joe into that situation. He ended up travelling with Jesse James Kirby so it worked out perfect; those guys get along good. They finished out the year down there."

DeMoss not only had the support of his brother and fellow WNFR saddle bronc rider Heith, wife Margie and children Darby and Wyatt; he also credits long-time friend Beau Hebert for a truck sponsorship this year, "Hebert owns a dodge dealership here (at home). We've been friends a long time - we did some trading and he got me a brand new pickup truck to drive. And he went and had a picture taken, wrapped the truck and put Hebert's Town and Country on it. That definitely gave me a way to go and a different attitude when I pulled into the rodeos or anywhere."

DeMoss was leading the PRCA Saddle Bronc World standings going into this year's WNFR with $199,397. Despite an injury sustained early at the WNFR, he picked up four placings and ended up fifth overall with $228,820 in overall World earnings.

Four and Counting For Cassidy

by Tim Ellis

Cody Cassidy has no problem admitting it. He's a poor loser. "I've been like that since I was a kid," reveals the 34-year-old, Donalda, AB, cowboy. "I think if you ask any athlete if they're a poor loser, they'd truthfully answer yes. You have to want to win bad enough."

Cassidy is such a poor loser that he's now won four Canadian steer wrestling championships. His latest title came in mid-November at the 42nd Canadian Finals Rodeo at Rexall Place in Edmonton.

"I always wanted to win four because dad won four," suggests Cassidy, who has missed just one CFR since 2003. "Now I want to win five or six."

"I really want to win five to tie (two-time world champion) Lee Graves because he was my idol when I started. He's one of, if not the best steer wrestler Canada has produced. Dad went until he was 47 and I don't see why I can't go that long or longer. It's all a matter of the drive you have."

The younger Cassidy's drive this season was at its height.

"The huge difference this year was going to the gym," offers the 12-time Canadian Finals Rodeo qualifier. "I went about 3-5 times a week since March. And for the first time, I went to every single rodeo in Canada this year."

"You're only as good as you want to be. You expect to win when you put in that kind of effort. You come to the CFR physically and mentally prepared and try to ride the best horse."

While Cassidy took care of the first part of that equation, it was Dustin Walker who supplied the horse. His 2015 Steer Wrestling Horse of the Year, Tank, seemed the perfect fit for a championship run.

"Dusty's horse probably ran the hardest of any horse there," says Cassidy, who qualified for the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas in 2010. "He has his days when he runs wide sometimes. But no horse is perfect. I probably rode the best one in my career and even Willy wasn't perfect."

And Cassidy and Tank were far from perfect on opening night of the Canadian Finals, posting one of four no-times of the first performance.

"If you're going to miss a steer, it's best to do it the first night," reasons Cassidy, who won $60,611 in Canada this season. "It opens the door to run at the barrier and win as much as you can. You have nothing to lose."

"Throughout the week, lots of stuff happens. Other guys miss steers and have some trouble and before you know it, you're back in the heat of things. I was disappointed but I knew I wasn't out of it. There was no excuse for it, I was just late getting out of the box. But I tried to stay positive."

"With Tanner (Milan) and (brother) Curt having trouble on the last day, I knew I just had to throw down my steer decent and hold my spot in the average. But I've had to just catch steers before for lots of money and it hasn't worked out. If either of those guys would have won, I would have been just as happy. We've made a lot of miles together."

With his fourth championship buckle, Cassidy joins a group of just seven cowboys who have won at least four Canadian titles since 1945.

"After my third one (in 2011), I said to dad, 'one more and I'll have you caught'," recalls Cassidy, who along with his father, Greg and brother, Curtis, have won a combined ten Canadian bulldogging championships. "He said 'that'll be the hardest one to win, sonny'."

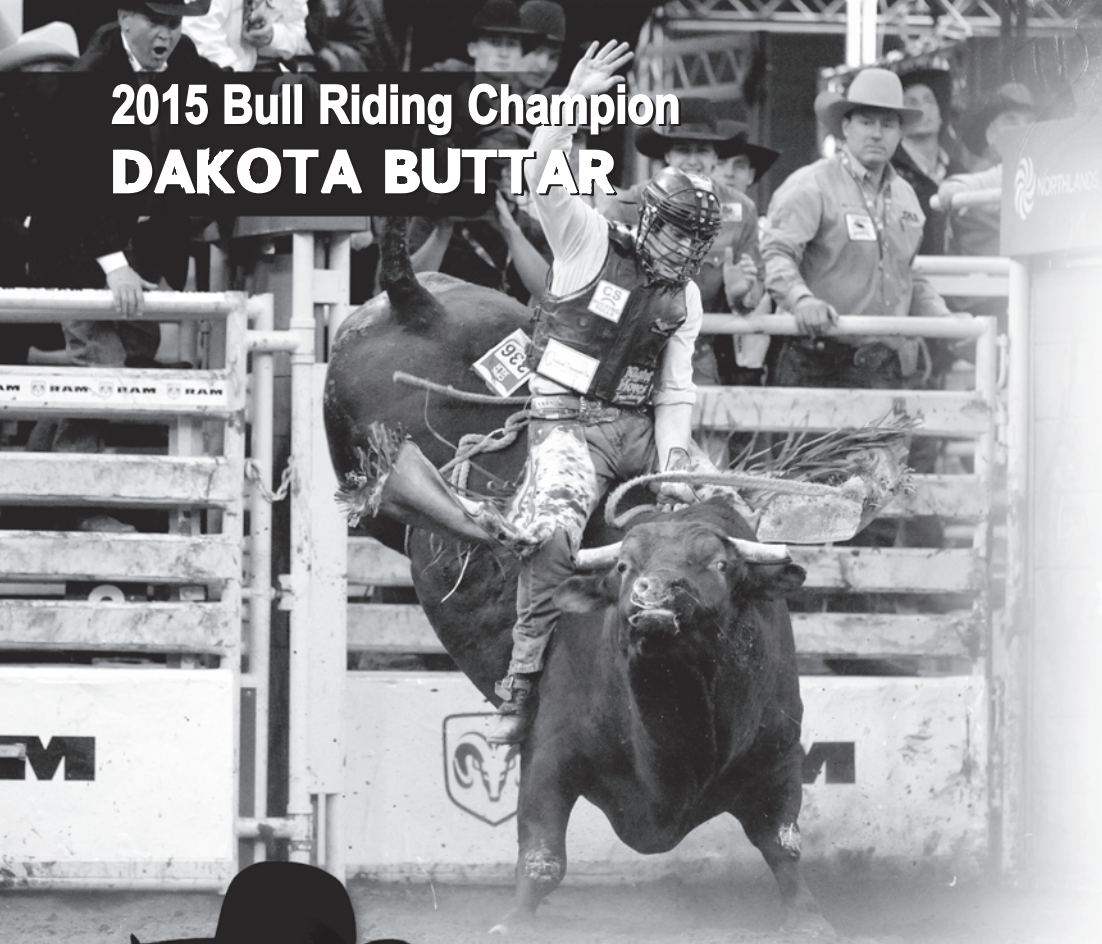

"I didn't grow as quick as Curt so I started later. In grade 10, out of a hundred boys, I was probably the 4th or 5th shortest. I wasn't big enough or strong enough to steer wrestle. After high school, I started guiding and then one day, I compared my paycheques to Curtis' and it changed my plans. I got into the practise pen and started on the rodeo trail."

The rest is history. But it's a chapter that appears far from over.

"I'm not slowing down at all," grins Cassidy, who will soon be a father for a second time. "I don't want any regrets when I'm done. I don't want to leave asking how much more could I have accomplished if I'd done this or that."

"I want to know that when I'm done, I have given every last ounce of effort I could have. I don't want to be the guy who had excuses. I don't like to lose."

Buttar - Tight Race For Second Buckle

by Tim Ellis

At the age of 23, Dakota Buttar has put himself in position to earn a place among a very small, elite group in the Canadian pro rodeo history books.

After winning his second straight Pro Rodeo Canada bullriding championship at Rexall Place in November, Buttar became just the 7th cowboy in the history of the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association to win back-to-back bullriding titles. Only two, Wilf Girletz (1950-52) and Gid Garstad (1964-66), have made three consecutive trips to the champions' table.

"It was a goal of mine to make it back to the CFR again," offers Buttar, who was the CPRA season leader for the second straight year as well. "There have been some champions who don't even make it back to the finals the next year."

In fact, that list might be longer than the tally of the four bullriders (Rob Bell, Brian Claypool, Wayde Joyal, Dale Johansen) who have won consecutive titles since the Canadian Finals Rodeo began in 1974.

"This season was different because I had some injuries that forced me to miss a few weekends in July," reveals the Kindersley, Sask., cowboy. "Last year, I really didn't have any injuries."

Still, Buttar's regular season numbers were actually better in 2015. He won $39,952 during the year and went into the 42nd CFR in Edmonton with an $11,300 lead over Jordan Hansen. A year prior, his total entering the Canadian Finals was $35,874, $3,424 more than Tyler Thomson leading into the finals.

But, winning the second championship proved much more difficult than in 2014. In fact, any fans who may have left early after watching the bullriding at the final Sunday afternoon performance of the CFR, may have been surprised Buttar was crowned the champion. His announced score of 87.25-points, which would have split the round with Tyler Thomson, was later corrected to 87.5-points, giving Buttar the go-round win and just enough to edge out Zane Lambert by $510 for the championship.

"My ribs were hurting pretty bad coming into Sunday," says Buttar, who was roughed up the night before by a Big Stone Rodeo Inc. black bull called Attitude Dude. "I bucked off a couple coming into Sunday but I tried not to worry about it. I didn't know if I could pass Zane."

Lambert, who came into the CFR over $13,600 behind Buttar, had moved into the number spot prior to Sunday's final performance thanks to a Saturday night win.

"I was kind of shocked at how well my CFR went," admits Lambert, who also won the 3rd round on Friday night. "My finals went really well and I drew great."

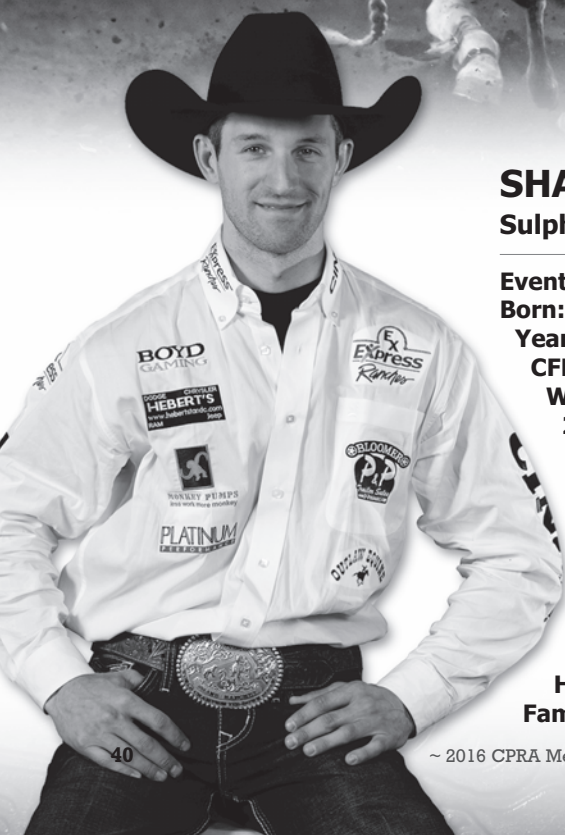

For the 29 year-old, Lambert, his downfall came during the Saturday afternoon performance at Rexall Place when he was disqualified for slapping his bull. That ended his streak of three consecutive qualified rides.

"I was pretty frustrated because I tried so hard with that bull," recalls Lambert, who drew a Calgary Stampede bull called Man In Black in the 4th round. "I remember the jump when he rared up and I remember reaching out over the top of him. But I didn't think I touched him. I thought I got by him."

Also making life difficult for Buttar was 2008 Canadian Champion, Tyler Thomson. The 34 year-old, who earlier announced it would be his last CFR, was in the mix right up until the end, finishing just $2,849 off the lead.

"I went to Edmonton with the intention of riding all my bulls and giving them a run for the Canadian title," contends Thomson, who was the CFR aggregate champion. "I told everybody that I didn't want to go there to celebrate my retirement, I wanted to be celebrating a Canadian championship."

Second Tie-Down Title For Hanchey

by Dianne Finstad

The tie-down roping event at the 2015 Canadian Finals Rodeo featured its most wide open race in years. In fact, mathematically nearly half the field was still in the title hunt on the final day, including Rimbey's Dean Edge. But when the last calf was tied, and the accounting work was done, the championship buckle was in the hands of Shane Hanchey, for the second time in the Louisiana cowboy's career.

Ryan Jarrett of Oklahoma was in the driver's seat as the earnings leader after round five, but Hanchey was the man in front for the average. The common denominator for the two travelling partners and friends was TJ, the grey horse owned by Logan and Manerd Bird of Nanton. Both credit their season and CFR success to the Canadian horse.

In the final performance, Hanchey nodded his head for a big red calf, executed a technically brilliant flank move to get the calf down, and sped up the round with an 8.2 second tie. Jarrett, as last man out, was up to the challenge, and he too backed TJ in and came out guns a-blazin'. In just 7.2 seconds, his calf was wrapped up, and he took the victory salute for fastest time of the day. Then came the numbers crunch. One missed calf for Jarrett earlier in the week meant he finished fourth in the average. The second place go-round cheque, plus winning the average, gave Hanchey $21,201 Sunday, edging him past Jarrett by $2276 for the buckle. He finished his Canadian season with $62,449.

"I knew if I just held my spot in the average, that would be an extra $12,000, and whatever I could get in the round would be double-dipping," explained Hanchey. "But I tell you what, TJ won first and second in Canada; first and second in two rounds; first in the average and fourth in the average. It speaks for itself. He's one of the best there is up here, if not both countries.

"The calf today was not one of my very favorites in the pen, because he was a lot bigger and wanted to squat at the end of the rope. When they do that, it makes it even harder to flank. I knew the calf ran the pattern that I like – step to the right, and not run too hard. I knew I could set it up. I just needed to make sure I did what I teach at all my clinics – flanking. I finally did it today and it worked out."

Hanchey, an ardent sports fan especially for his Louisiana Tigers college football squad, normally has a pretty calm and cool rodeo game face. But he showed real intensity after his last run, with some celebratory fist pumps to signal the accomplishment.

"Yeah, not only just for the CFR, but I've been through a lot this year (2015)," admitted the 2013 World Champion. "I battled my way to 15th (at season's end) to make it to the NFR. It's been a long year, and that emotion was just there, for finishing off and winning the average."

That had been another battle, with 21-year-old Kyle Lucas finishing a mere 1.6 seconds behind Hanchey in the skirmish.

"I knew it was going to be a long week, and Kyle roped great all week, and I told him that. He's a good, young talent, and he's going to be something to reckon with up here and down there before long," Hanchey noted, with admiration.

This season marked the first time the 26-year-old had traveled enough north of the border to make it back to Rexall Place since his 2012 Canadian championship. It meant some sacrifice and long miles from his southern home, but coming out on top again made it all worthwhile.

"It feels great, just considering how I went about doing it. The first one I came in with the lead and really, just couldn't mess up, to stay with that lead. But this one, I had to come from midway out of the pack. I knew that the average was going to be the tell-all tale with the roping this week, with the guys that were here. This is one of the toughest groups of guys I've roped against up here. I don't know what the fans thought, but it was dang sure fun watching it, and fun doing it," he grinned.

"This kind of shadows the year I won the world title. I came in here with an 'everything to gain and nothing to lose' mentality. I knew that if I got off on the right start, and I obviously did by placing in the first two rounds, I kind of figured out I was on my way to leading the average. It worked out again."

The Canadian title gives Hanchey a double dose, momentum and confidence, heading to his sixth straight appearance in Las Vegas. Plus he plans on taking TJ along for the ride.

"I rode TJ every time I came up here this year. He is one of the main reasons I was able to make the NFR, because I made that big jump in June and July when I was coming up here. So I'm going to take him to the NFR. There's no way I can not start out on him. I won over $40,000 on him, and that's a good week up here. And there's a lot more money in Vegas to be won."

Before he focused on the next goal, there was time for Shane Hanchey to appreciate this made-in-Canada victory.

"To be able to win this twice is awesome because of all the great talent up here, and the great rodeos. I love coming up here because everybody's so friendly, and they actually love rodeo, and they love us, and that's what makes us feel good."

2015 Team Roping Champions

ROLAND MCFADDEN / TYREL FLEWELLING

McFadden and Flewelling - Popular Win

by Katy Lucas

Experience is always a virtue in the world of rodeo and when Roland McFadden of Vulcan paired up with then two-time Canadian Champion Team Roper Tyrel Flewelling from Lacombe, he had to be thinking the same thing.

"It kind of hit me this morning when I was thinking about it. I think it's more, for me anyway, that I feel lucky to rope with Tyrel; he's modest but he's won it (the title) three times for a reason," said McFadden when interviewed just minutes after the announcement that he had won his first Canadian title, Flewelling his third.

McFadden had been in a situation where he had a chance to win a Canadian title before, but could never quite get things to go his way to bring home the buckle. When asked about how it felt to be a part of "the club" now, Roland says he felt welcomed.

"It was kind of nice to have all the past Canadian champions, in every event today, come up to me and say 'you deserve this'. It's really gratifying to me; this is what I've worked for all year," said McFadden.

Work he did. Not only did McFadden rodeo, but he worked several jobs including stunt man, rope distributor and in the field of financial services, just to support himself on the trail.

"I went to a job so I could afford to rope - then came home and roped every night. I told myself I'm going to grind it out; I don't care what it takes. When somebody else is taking the night off, I'm going to be practicing," said McFadden.

The partner that McFadden credits with showing him the way, and who the header is eager to brag up, even if his heeler won't do it for himself, is three time Canadian Team Roping Champion Tyrel Flewelling.

"He's extremely modest; he's the only guy I know who's a three-time champ and you'd never know it talking to him. We were on a plane ride to Morris and he's talking to these people from England and he's explaining about it and telling them about rodeo. They asked him how he did - he said he did okay," said McFadden with a chuckle.

When Flewelling was asked about what this third win meant to him, he was quick to pass his excitement on to his partner.

"It's pretty awesome to be a part of Pony's (McFadden's) first one. I'm just proud of him because he's roped good enough here to do it before and things didn't go his way, but this week he roped outstanding," said Flewelling.

The heeler notes that, unlike roughstock events where you can't practice all the time, in the timed event end you always have to be working on your abilities.

"It's always great to win; it just solidifies going all year, the miles, the amount of time you put in to practice, team roping you practice all the time," said Flewelling who seems to continually perfect his roping abilities with each title he gains.

These two acknowledge that they couldn't put in this hard work, and make the sacrifices needed to become Canadian champions, without their supportive families, especially the women in their lives. "Of course my family, my mom and dad, I couldn't do it without them... Mama McFadden; she's everything at the ranch there, every cowboy knows about her buttermilk pancakes," laughed McFadden.

For Flewelling, he jokes that his mother, known by the competitors as "Coach Wendy", has been a driving force behind his success, and while he's not one to brag on himself, he beams with pride as he talks about his wife Carla winning her first saddle as a team roper, baby bump and all.

Looking ahead these two plan to stick together for the 2016 season. But for now they're enjoying the glory of their big win.

2015 Permit Winner

CAYLA MELBY

Burneyville, Oklahoma's Cayla Melby is no stranger to winning.

Inspired by watching her mom, Jane, compete at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo, the seventeen year-old already has a world title of her own having been the champion at the Junior High Rodeo Finals in 2010. And this year, both she and her mom earned berths in the American semi-finals in Fort Worth through the qualifier that was staged in Calgary in September; in fact Cayla qualified two horses for the Texas event.

Intent on making the Canadian Finals Rodeo in 2015, Cayla won money on four different horses to achieve that goal. She started the year on Eyema Rare Bug and Candy's Clone. But the plan went a little sideways in July when a farrier trimmed both horses too short which necessitated time off for the pair. But Cayla didn't miss a beat as she turned to LTF Jets Last Dance and Brookstone Jo, placing in the short go at the Strathmore Stampede. She then finished out the season on the latter, a five year-old that the Melbys had been hauling but had not actually planned on running.

Cayla went into the CFR in tenth place and enjoyed a very strong Finals; she won three rounds and picked up two additional placings for a total of $43,650 in CFR earnings and the reserve title.

2015 Rookie of the Year

by Dianne Finstad

LONNIE WEST

Lonnie West, who turned 20 in December, earned the CPRA Rookie of the Year honors with $19,798 in earnings.

The amazing thing is all that winning was done in less than two months. The Cadogan kid from a bull riding family filled his semi-pro permit and only took out his pro card days before the Ponoka Stampede. He showed his talent at Ponoka when he was the only rider to cover his bull in the short go, which gave him first in the average. Despite being bucked off the notorious Sheep Creek in the Showdown, he still walked away with second place, for a total haul of $12,621. He also collected a third place cheque from Williams Lake that weekend. Then there was a tie for second with his brother Billy, at Taber, and cheques from Kinsella and Maple Creek. West also won Bruce, placed at the Camrose Bulls for Breakfast, and tied for second in La Crete before things came to a crashing halt.

"Ponoka was huge for my season. It kind of saved me, for what happened this fall," related West. "I had a bull step on me at a PBR in Lashburn. I tore the hamstring tendon off my leg, and I tore my groin and the muscle on the front of my pelvis."

That doesn't come close to describing the spectacle, captured by his brother Bryce in a photo. It shows the bull Gunsmoke coming down on West's groin as he lay on his back, with his legs bent around, past a 'splits' angle. So there was other damage too – to ribs, and his riding arm shoulder.

West was forced to turn out of all the remaining rodeos as he nursed his body back to health.

"I was riding better than I ever had been. It was a waiting game, watching the standings to see if I was in. It was tough, but I made it in there anyway."

Working with specialists, following a dedicated exercise routine, and time have West believing his strength is nearly back to where it was before the wreck. And he wants nothing more than to pick up and finish off his rookie year in winning form.

"I achieved all my goals that I had set earlier this year. I wanted to win Rookie of the Year and make the CFR. I'm pretty happy to be going to Edmonton. The Rookie of the Year was big because Dad (Kevin) won it in '86, Billy last year, and then me this year, so both Wests have got it back to back," he smiled. "I think they still give out the same plaques as when Dad won it too, so that's cool."

"Dad rode there four times. None of us would be where we are without him. Since I was little, it just got in my head that I wanted to be at the CFR. I want to be a Canadian Champion."

Both Lonnie and Billy West attend Red Deer College where they are working on their apprenticeships – Billy as a third year electrician, and Lonnie as a second year heavy duty mechanic.

Although West joined Jared Parsonage and Wesley Silcox as the three bull riding newcomers at the 2015 CFR, it was not his first trip to Edmonton. He was there with Billy in the steer riding in 2008, and with Bryce in 2009.

Lonnie enjoyed a solid CFR with three placings and over $13,000 in earnings over the five day Finals.

GILLIAN SHIELDS - Committee Person of the Year

There's no greater feeling than being honoured by your peers. For Oldstoberfest Rodeo's general manager Gillian Shields, being awarded Committee Person of the Year at the 2015 CFR left her 'grateful beyond words'.

"I was not expecting it," said Shields. "Just knowing that you've done something that means something to others is a really awesome feeling."

What happened this entire year, certainly exceeded Shield's expectations... by a landslide.

Oldstoberfest attracted almost 5500 spectators to the Olds Regional Exhibition Grounds. Friday's rodeo performance and Dallas Smith concert, Shields noted, were completely sold out.

Shields said that she hadn't tackled something of this magnitude prior to taking on the position and admitted she was nervous initially. Once she was given the task of offering ideas for Oldstoberfest, she said her goal was to make a change and re-introduce a pro rodeo.

In receiving the award, Shields refused to take all the credit for the success of the rodeo. She pointed out that the community got behind the event and, in particular, the entire 20-person Oldstoberfest team really stepped up to make the weekend a successful event.

As a committee person, Shields' goals were to make everyone happy and to host an extremely successful event. She worked hard to bring in new partners such as Olds College and the Pomeroy Inn and Suites. She said collaborating with the whole community of Olds was one of the biggest reasons for the success of the event.

BRETT GARDINER - Announcer of the Year

Brett Gardiner enjoyed his third consecutive appearance behind the microphone at the CFR in 2015, an honour that came on the heels of his being named Canada's Rodeo Announcer of the Year for the fifth time.

Fittingly, during his intercollegiate career, Brett was the two-time winner of the Bill Kehler Memorial Scholarship (which recognizes the late Hall of Fame announcer/broadcaster) and Brett is quick to acknowledge his pride in being able to follow in the footsteps of the legendary Kehler.

Brett is one of Canada's most recognizable rodeo voices as he informs and entertains fans at a number of our sport's most important events across western Canada and beyond.

A school teacher when not on the rodeo trail, Brett, his wife Jaclyn, son, Grady, and daughter, Hadley, reside in Sylvan Lake, AB.

NIKI FLUNDRA - Dress Act of the Year

2015 marks the fifth time Niki Flundra has been honoured as the Dress Act of the Year.

A Canadian icon, Flundra established herself as a brilliant and innovative trick rider. Now her performances as a 'liberty' horse entertainer have taken Niki to the arenas of many of the biggest and best rodeos in North America including the Calgary Stampede, Houston, Fort Worth, the Wrangler NFR (seven times) and our own Canadian Finals Rodeo. Niki has appeared as a stunt double in numerous motion picture and television shows, including CBC's popular Heartland series.

Niki, her husband, three time Canadian Saddle Bronc Champion, Dustin, and their sons, Ridge and Shade, live and ranch south of Pincher Creek, AB.

DENNIS HALSTEAD - Comedy Act of the Year

2015 marks the fifth time Dennis Halstead has been recognized as CPRA Comedy Act of the Year. A household name among rodeo fans on both sides of the 49th parallel, Dennis continues to entertain fans at rodeos throughout the year.

Retired from a thirty year career as a Calgary fireman, Dennis spends much of the year on the road travelling to rodeos - large and small where his zany humour is enjoyed by fans of all ages.

Dennis has enjoyed appearances at the Calgary Stampede, the Dodge Circuit Finals... and even rodeos in Australia.

"I'm very fortunate to get to do what I do,"

Dennis comments. "It's a dream to be a rodeo clown and live the lifestyle of a cowboy."

2015 Cowboy of the Year

by Tim Ellis

DAVE POULSEN

I can't believe these people are as devious as they are!

Those are the words uttered by 2015 CPRA Cowboy of the Year, Dave Poulsen, in describing how any hint of him winning the award was kept secret until the bronze was placed in his arms by Douglas Lake Ranch's Taylor-Jane Gardner during the second performance of the Canadian Finals Rodeo at Rexall Place in Edmonton in mid-November.

"Because the Cowboy of the Year ceremony was right after the Hall of Fame introductions, they (his wife, Barb, CPRA President, Murry Milan and Bob Steadward) told me I was needed to escort one of the inductees in and out of the arena," continues Poulsen. "I suspected it might be Pearl Mandeville.

"As I was heading for the arena, Murry caught me and said they now only needed me to help her out of the arena and we got into this long conversation about different rodeos, who works there and what their jobs are, things we'd never discussed before. Then someone from Edmonton Northlands said we needed to get in there. So I thought I'd better go in and find Pearl.

"Well at first I couldn't see her and I was feeling bad that I was letting Murry down on the one thing he'd asked me to do. Of course Pearl wasn't even there. And I heard (CFR announcer) Brett (Gardiner) start talking about an announcer who's been around a long time and I started getting a little confused. Then I turned and saw my family and realized this was one of those special moments. But even as it was all happening, I was still thinking, there's some mistake here."

It was no mistake. After some three decades behind the microphone at rodeos across the country, Poulsen was getting his due in front of 13,000 fans on the biggest stage in Canadian Pro Rodeo.

"I was absolutely overwhelmed," suggests Poulsen, who, even as an accomplished author of over two-dozen books, may not have been able to write such a script. "It was a huge honour but an even bigger surprise.

"First, no announcer has ever won the award. And then to have your name in the same conversation with guys I've talked about for years and that have been my heroes, is phenomenal.

"More importantly it's appreciation for all those years of toiling away in a motel room doing your homework for the next rodeo. For doing the best job you can when it's minus three and there's nobody in the stands. To realize that all of that has been appreciated by the very people you care most about in the sport I've pretty much given my life to, it was one of the greatest moments in my career and life."

Like most who have become so-called contract acts in professional rodeo, Poulsen started out as a competitor.

"I rode bareback horses... badly," offers Poulsen of his early beginnings in rodeo. "Then I fought bulls and did some barrel work. I was okay at the comedy stuff but not so good fighting bulls."

His announcing career began back in 1980 while he was working at the Saskatoon Exhibition. Part of the job included phoning in rodeo reports to the media.

"Reg Kesler heard me one day," recalls Poulsen, who was voted CPRA Announcer of the Year in 2009 and selected to announce at four CFR's. "In his typical style, he said 'you're not that bad at that. I might get you for a rodeo some day.'

"Well, three days before the Medicine Hat Stampede, I get a call that he needs me to be there to work with (Canadian Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame announcer) Warren Cooper. And I've been there ever since. When I started announcing, I thought I could do it for a little while but never did I think it would be for 36 years.

"Nobody does what they do to win awards," says the 2014 Calgary Stampede Hall of Fame inductee. "But when you do, especially this award, it defies belief. I keep going through it in my mind thinking this really did happen, right. I wasn't dreaming was I? I'm not sure there will be another moment like it."

2015 Cowgirl of the Year

by Deanna Kristensen

GAYLE HOWES

During the 2015 Non-CFR Awards presentation at the River Cree Hotel in Edmonton, Gayle Howes of Metiskow, Alta., was recognized as Cowgirl of the Year.

"I was shocked," she admits.

Gayle Howes began her impressive career in the most unlikely of ways. "When I was growing up around Cadogan there just wasn't any barrel racing or barrel racers in the area."

That didn't stop a young cowgirl who was obsessed with the sport. She picked up a how to manual authored by Jane Mayo and went to work learning the craft... on the back of her Shetland Pony.

From that rather inauspicious start, Gayle Howes put together a string of successes on the backs of a long line of great horses. Timer, the horse that carried her to a Canadian title, Mr. T., Shady, Dollar, Doubles and Meo—all were horses that were outstanding, all of them piloted by the skilled cowgirl.

"I've had more CFR horses in my career than anyone else I know," she notes with justifiable pride.

Howes is a 13-time CFR Qualifier and the 1986 Canadian Champion barrel racer, but she still has one competitive goal remaining.

"I've been in this for more years than I can say," she laughs. "And I've made the Finals in four different decades," Howes acknowledged. "I'd like to make it five."

In addition, she dedicates herself to assisting her daughter, four-time CFR qualifier Braidy Howes and promoting the Howes horses, a group that is as impressive as it has always been.

And she continues to encourage others to follow their dreams down the rodeo road. A lot has changed over the years. However, Howes said she loves where rodeo is today. And, most of all, she feels honoured to be recognized by the amazing group of cowgirls that she holds in high regard.

Canadian Pro Rodeo Sport Medicine

The Canadian Pro Rodeo Sport Medicine Team, or CPRSMT, is a group of dedicated caregivers who love the sport of rodeo... and who have been striving to help rodeo athletes for over 30 years. Team members (in such disciplines as athletic therapy, massage therapy and chiropractic care) provide care before, during or after each performance, as necessary. Practitioners also educate and enable competitors to take better care of themselves and their injuries to ensure they get the most out of their rodeo season. In addition, the CPRSMT also includes a network of physicians, sport medicine doctors and orthopaedic surgeons providing post injury care to rodeo competitors.

2015 Stock of the Year

Stock Contractor of the Year

OUTLAW BUCKERS' RODEO CORP.

"Together we're stronger," said Outlaw Buckers' General Manager Johnathan Kmita of what could best be described as a conglomerate of stock contractors. "Lots of people ask how you have that many guys together and keep the fighting from happening. For us it's just a great bunch of guys. We all accept our roles and do what we can to make the company better. Together, the stock is that much better. It's better for the rodeos, cowboys and for us."

The Outlaw Buckers organization includes Kmita, Chad Byrne, Dale Woodward and Bruce Flewelling on the horse end and the new blood Curtis Sawyer on the bull end. "Curtis had his own set of bulls and when he bought in, he bought Rod Shellenburg's bulls and added to the great pen he already had built up to make it that much better. We're a mix of the old crew guys and the younger ideas.

"It's an honor to win this prestigious award, that's voted on by all the contestants," Kmita added. "Being former contestants we know what it was like going down the road, where you wanted to get on the good stock, so we are trying our best to put together the best pens we can so guys want to come to our rodeos. That's why this award means so much. Our ideas are working and people are recognizing that, it's a feather in our cap." This marks the second time the award has gone to the relatively young company.

Saddle Bronc Horse of the Year

508 LUNATIC PARTY - Outlaw Buckers Rodeo Corp.

One obvious component that earned Outlaw Buckers stock contractor of the year is their super-star, 2015 Saddle Bronc of the Year Lunatic Party.

"We bought Lunatic Party in 2010 at the NFR bucking horse sale from Jess Martin--she's Lunatic Fringe out of Surprise Party," Kmita explained. The ten year-old paint mare has been selected for the NFR and CFR five straight years. This award marks her 3rd consecutive Saddle Bronc of the year award and she was also last year's top saddle bronc of the CFR.

"She's the same every trip, she's tries her heart out every time out," Kmita noted.. "As soon as that gate opens she gets it on right there. She takes a lot of rein and she's really good to ride. Guys love her cause not only does she buck hard but she's rider friendly. She's bucky enough that she'll throw you off if you stub a toe, but if you do everything right you'll be big points on her. She seems to suit a lot of guys' styles.

"She loves what she does. What kind of makes her unique is that when she's not bucking she's calm like a broke saddle horse. You can pet her. She skinned up her leg; we just squeezed her behind a panel along the fence and doctored her that way. She just stood there and took it. Not much bothers her. She can handle a lot of different situations."

2015 Stock of the Year

Bareback Horse of the Year

838 MUCHO DINERO - Vold Rodeo Ltd.

Bareback horse of the Year, Wayne Vold's Mucho Dinero is every bareback rider's dream, "He's very rider friendly," Vold stated. "He's a big horse - weighs at least 1350 pounds and stands 16 hands. He's very athletic. I can't emphasize enough he's cowboy friendly, I don't think he's heavy on those bareback riders, in spite his size."

Wayne Vold bought Mucho Dinero from Jim Lawrence of Prime Time Rodeo in Kennedy, SK. Vold saw the horse on a futurity video and developed an interest in him after Lawrence brought the horse to Wainwright and Ponoka three years ago. Lawrence bucked the horse under his own permit at Wainwright and Ponoka but Vold purchased the horse that fall, "Then I got three trips on him and took him to the CFR and I think they won a round or two on him there. The next year I wanted to haul him and get eight trips on him to get him to Vegas. We started him out in Stavely, then he went to most of my rodeos, and he was in the final four round at Calgary that year. He has been to the CFR and WNFR three times so far."

"He's a class act. He's one of those special top five percenters." With this award it's obvious the bareback riders agree."

Bull of the Year

45 SEVEN DUST - Big Stone Rodeo Co.

Bull of the Year honors go to a bull everybody wants a piece of, Big Stone Rodeo's Seven Dust who has been selected to not only the CFR but the PBR World Finals and the NFR as well, an honor that hasn't been seen since at least before BSE heightened regulations at the border.

Seven Dust is a Tyler Thompson raised bucking bull owned by Bruce Sunstrum of Big Stone Rodeo. Sunstrum has been bucking the now five year-old bull since he was three.

"He really started to get on a roll as a four year-old," Sunstrum pointed out. "He's out of a bull called Seven Seconds, a bull Tyler used as a breeding bull years ago. He was out several times this year; the highest they were on him was 89.5 at Calgary. Other than that I don't think he got rode much all summer. He usually turns back to the left right out of the gate and bucks pretty hard."

Stetson Lawrence, the PBR bull rider who rode Seven Dust at Calgary, drew the bull at the PBR finals in Vegas this fall and did not manage to repeat his Calgary performance as Seven Dust abolished him in 1.89 seconds

A big black bull with smaller horns - one points out and one points down, Sunstrum admitted, "Seven Dust is a little on the mean side. He's been bucked about 12-14 times this year. He made the PBR finals and won Bull of Canada-you can't ask much more of him than that."

Barrel Racing Horse With the Most Heart

Little Miss Wicked (Wicked) - owned by Nancy Csabay

"I think she's got a heart of gold, she's tough, and wicked."

Wicked, the 11-year-old sorrel mare carried Nancy Csabay to not only her sixth CFR qualification, but fought right to the end to win the coveted season leader title.

The pair have been through a lot together; Csabay admits the horse liked to argue when she first started training her, but through the years the two have grown stronger. A broken splint bone as a colt for Wicked and a battle with Breast Cancer for Csabay didn't seem to be able to take this dynamic duo down.

It would seem that in this case both horse and rider deserve awards for having the most heart, but Csabay notes that in an event where winners are decided by mere hundredths of a second, every horse has to have that kind of heart.

"To be honest with you, I think all of our horses fit that description. You've got the best in Canada going to these finals and I think all of them are special and they all have a lot of heart or else they wouldn't be there," said Csabay.

Team Roping Heading Horse of the Year

Peggy Sue - owned by Clay Ullery

It takes a lot of horse power in the game of heading; you've got to have a horse that can run like mad, but also be level headed enough to score flat footed and know when to rate when others might run right by a steer.

Even if you have found a horse that has all that, there's one more trait that a heading horse needs; the desire to win.

"I think my partner, Kevin Schreiner, said it right, she's a winner. She just does whatever it takes to let you win and that's what makes her really good," said owner, Clay Ullery.

At just six-years-old the tall gray mare has all the athletic ability needed to be a successful head horse on the pro circuit, but she may just have a little something extra going on between her ears.

"She gets really mad when you miss, you can't really even ride her back to the trailer, she's prancing and going crazy. It's not like she usually is at all, I have little kids ride her so I don't know why she's like that when you miss one but she is," said Ullery.

This quality hasn't often been seen in a mare, Peggy Sue is the first mare in the history of the CPRA to win the title of Heading Horse of the Year.

Team Roping Heeling Horse of the Year

Bam Bam - owned by Kasper Roy

Goofy antics paired with a strong-man attitude – it worked for the Flintstone's iconic character "Bam Bam", and seems to work just fine for Kasper Roy and his equine partner.

"He's pretty funny; he's almost like a human the way he hauls and the weird stuff he does. Whether he's untying himself and doing his own thing or whatever, he's pretty funny to be around," said Roy.

2015 Timed Event Horses of the Year

Bam Bam stands at just over 14 hands tall, but if the now two-time Heeling Horse of the Year could talk he'd tell you he was the largest horse roaming (sometimes literally as Roy states) the CPRA Circuit. All jokes aside, when it's time to compete Roy says the 11-year-old gelding has a no-quit attitude that fits his agenda quite well.

"He just suits me. No matter what, I can always get a fast throw and get tight so fast, it's like he was meant for me," said Roy, "I've been trying ever since I bought him to find another one like him and I can't do it. He's kind of a once in a lifetime horse."

Tie-Down Roping Horse of the Year Sid - owned by Dean Edge

The bay horse with white spots has done it for the seventh time and Edge couldn't be more proud of the horse that has been a part of his family now for 15 years.

"I think it's just awesome to be able to set a record. Everybody wants to be a record setter, even if it's not me, it's still attached to me," said Edge.

At 20-years-old, Sid miraculously continues to hone his skills and season himself. Edge says he feels the horse's growing maturity has made him smart enough to preserve himself in the arena.

"Just the way he acts – the way he runs and the way he stops – he's very unlikely to hurt himself," said Edge who has never been afraid to lend the horse out to his fellow competitors.

"It doesn't bother me to spread the good luck around a little bit."

Steer Wrestling Horse of the Year Tennessee Fly By (Tank) - owned by Dustin Walker

When you think about power, durability, and dependability – nothing is better suited for the job than a Tank.

"He doesn't flinch for anything; pressure doesn't affect him. He's tough as nails. He's run through some injuries; he's one of a kind," said Dustin Walker, owner of the 2015 Steer Wrestling Horse of the Year known to the Steer Wrestlers as "Tank"

Purchased from Jeremy Harden just over a year ago, the gelding has continued to flourish with his new owner. The 13-year-old Bay carried not only Walker, but three other competitors to the pay window all season. Walker alone won cheques at rodeos including: Wainwright, Innisfail, Airdrie, La Crete, Olds and capped it off by winning the Pro Rodeo Canada Series Final.

Every good horse always has some quirks, and for Tank it's how fast his tough-guy persona diminishes when his hazing horse leaves him.

"He's pretty buddied up to the hazing horse, if you take one away they kind of go nuts, it's kind of funny how he's attached. When you're warming him up he'll follow Hoss wherever he goes," said Walker.
