PERFORMANCE & SLACK

Section III, B, 16, B Committees are to submit their performance and slack order with their approval or the default setting of events will be posted. If changes are needed after approval and before entries, changes will result in a two hundred and fifty dollar ($250.00) fine. No changes in performance or slack order are allowed after entries are complete. Default performance order will be bareback riding, steer wrestling, breakaway, novice bareback, novice bronc riding, steer riding, ladies barrel racing, saddle bronc riding, team roping, tie down roping, bull riding. Default slack order will be as per section III, B, 16, c; Section III, B, 16, C At all CPRA approved rodeos the suggested slack order is as follows: ladies barrel racing, tie down roping, steer wrestling, team roping and ladies breakaway roping. Each event must either be completed or have one run on the cattle completed before going on to the next event. If a rough stock slack is required, the events will run either before or after the timed events are completed. Once a rodeo has been approved, the slack order cannot change after the entry.

CENTRAL RODEO ENTRY SYSTEM SPLITS

Section V, B, 3. Performance Preference

Generally, a rodeo shall be set up by that rodeo's primary stock contractor or a rodeo committee representative. However, if the primary stock contractor/rodeo committee representative has not contacted the CRES office within twenty (20) minutes of entry closing time, CRES will be allowed to set up the rodeo and draw positions, using CRES's discretion. Exceptions will be made only if the primary stock contractor/rodeo committee representative has made arrangements with the CRES office prior to entry opening time. The Director of Rodeo shall have the authority to levy fines if the primary stock contractor/rodeo committee representative fails to return a call at a mutually agreed time.
